Distinctive Furniture

Don't pass by the really good things of life thinking they're not made for you—that a mistaken idea that exists, if at all, in your own mind only. Just make up your mind they are made for you, then study into the matter carefully. If it's a matter of furniture go to furniture experts for information—that's us.

The very pretentious library chair illustrated above is upholstered with Morocco finished leather, the most expensive, the most satisfying covering known to the business. Don't let that force you to the conclusion that that settles the matter so far as you are concerned. 'Tis true the asking price of such a piece is ordinarily $60.00; but we know a way that most stores don't, to bring price and our customers together without losing a particle of the quality either. $36.00 is the price of this piece and it's built to serve as an heirloom.

SOLUTION OF PLOT GROWS CLEARER.

Cirofici, a Probable Slayer, to Go Through Third Degree.

Grand Jury Inquiry Reveals Relations Between Police and Gamblers.

NEW YORK, July 26.—The solution of the intricate plot that brought Herman Rosenthal to his death that he might not tell more secrets of the relations between the police and gamblers, is near at hand. That is the belief today of Deputy Police Commissioner Dougherty. He prepared to give the "third degree" to Frank Cirofici, who, the commissioner says, is none other than "Dago Frank," one of the slayers of Rosenthal.

Cirofici was taken into custody late last night, along with a girl, Rose Harris, and a man named Abraham Lewis. The party was found in Harlem, and Cirofici had two suitcases packed ready for traveling. All had been smoking opium and hours of questioning by Commissioner Dougherty failed to elicit any information from Cirofici, for the fumes of the drug still befuddled his brain and he talked in meaningless phrases. He mumbled that he knew nothing about the shooting. Cirofici did admit that he knew Harry Horowitz, otherwise known as "Gib, the Blood," and that he knew Louis Rosenbury, or "Lefty Louie," both of whom are wanted as slayers of Rosenthal.

The confession of William Shapiro, the chauffeur of the "murder car" has supplied Commissioner Dougherty and District Attorney Whitman with many missing pieces of evidence. Commenting on the progress made Whitman said:

"I am certain that every man who had a part in the slaughter of Herman Rosenthal will be brought to justice. From having no case at all a few days ago, I could get indictments against four or five today if I had to."

The public prosecutor says he has smashed the alibi of "Bald Jack" Rose, of "Bridgie" Webber and of Harry Vallon.

The investigation by the grand jury into the relations between gamblers and the police is proving more than satisfactory to Mr. Whitman. The testimony of Lieutenant Costigan, known as the "Honest Cop," has created a sensation in police circles. Costigan flatly declared that he did not believe any gambling house could remain open without police protection. He said the gambling squad took orders from Police Commissioner Waldo and no one else.

Detectives are scouring the city for a mysterious member of the shooting party that was picked up by the "murder car" at "Bridgie" Webber's place. Shapiro, in his confession, said this stranger was the man who, after the killing, strolled back to the car with a smoking revolver in his hand.

Later Lieutenant Costigan, in the presence of Police Commissioner Waldo, denied that he had made statements to the grand jury that gambling houses could not remain open without police protection, and the gambling squad only took orders from Commissioner Waldo.

THAW DENIED FREEDOM.

Court Says Release Would be Dangerous to Public Safety.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., July 26.—Harry K. Thaw, in the eyes of the law, is still insane and must remain in the asylum where he was placed February 1, 1908, after he had killed Stanford White. Justice Keogh of the supreme court today denied Thaw's application for freedom. The court took the ground that Thaw's release would be dangerous to public safety.

This is the third attempt made by Harry K. Thaw to gain his liberty from Matteawan asylum for the criminal insane on a writ of habeas corpus. The sole question tried before Judge Keogh without a jury was whether Thaw is now sane. During the trial, which began June 17, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw took the witness stand and Thaw himself was called to to the authenticity of several letters written by him. Several noted alienists were called in the case.

SPEECH NEARLY COMPLETED.

Wilson May Go to Indianapolis When Marshall is Nominated.

SEA GIRT, N. J., July 26.—Herman Ridder of New York, it was learned here today, will continue as treasurer of the Democratic national committee during the campaign. Governor Wilson will not return to Sea Girt until noon tomorrow. After receiving a delegation of 100 members of the Brooklyn Democratic Club Mr. Wilson will again retire into seclusion, to remain until Monday morning.

Governor Wilson is today making a final draft of his speech of acceptance. After spending a few hours in Sea Girt, the nominee will again go into his retreat until early Monday morning.

There is a report here that the Democratic nominee may go to Indianapolis in August to attend the ceremonies when Governor Marshall is notified of his nomination for the Vice Presidency. Judge Parker of New York, who was temporary chairman of the Baltimore convention, will act as chairman of the committee to notify Governor Marshall.

EMPEROR OF JAPAN HAS A RELAPSE.

The Condition of Mutsuhito Causes Grave Anxiety.

Patient Unable to Take Nourishment and Becoming Weaker.

TOKIO, July 26.—The condition of Mutsuhito, Emperor of Japan, is today regarded by those in immediate attendance as grave. The nature of the emperor's malady, which is indicated as acute nephritis complicated by uraemic poisoning and which began to cause serious alarm about July 19, has prevented the patient from taking sufficient nourishment and he has continually become weaker. The bulletins have hitherto maintained a hopeful tone and it was hoped that the emperor would rally again, but instead he appears to have suffered a relapse and it is feared that his heart cannot stand the strain.

The suspense in the capital has been intense since the bulletin issued at noon showed that the condition of the emperor had become worse. It is plainly evident that the emperor is thought to have reached a condition of extreme gravity and the physicians are doing their utmost to sustain the remaining feeble sparks of life. At 10 o'clock tonight the great park outside the entrances to the palace grounds presented a remarkable scene. Thousands of people were gathered under the dwarf pine trees, some of them silent, many praying and all showing sorrowful anxiety. Among the upper branches of the magnificent pine trees surrounding the palace, high above the outer park, a number of paper lanterns, showing recognition of the homage of the multitude, occasionally swung as if showing the vital spark still lingered and conveying a message of hope to the people.

A bulletin issued at 8 o'clock in the evening contained merely the words "No change," and this only served to increase the feeling of anxiety.

A rush prevails over the city. Even during the busiest hours almost the only sound heard was the occasional cry of the newspaper boys, selling extra editions. Outside the palace in the extreme heat of mid-day the patient crowd waited with bowed heads for news of the emperor's condition.

The condition of the emperor is causing the gravest anxiety. The noon bulletin indicated that he is now suffering from exhaustion. It read: "Temperature 98.7; pulse 110; strong, irregular; respiration 32; irregular. His Majesty is extremely and increasingly tired."

The official bulletin issued at 6 o'clock this afternoon announced that no change had occurred. The temperature of the patient at that hour was 100.4, pulse 100.

The similarity of the bulletins posted throughout the past 24 hours is regarded as ominous. The nature of the emperor's malady precludes his taking much nourishment and as a result he has grown weaker day by day.

Prince Yamagata, president of the privy council, Marquis Saionji, the premier, and Count Watanabe, minister of the imperial household, held a conference this morning during which they made preparations for eventualities.

The crown prince, after a long stay in the imperial sickroom, returned to his residence this afternoon.

CABINET MINISTERS APPROVED.

Chinese Assembly Accedes to Military Commanders' Demand.

PEKIN, July 26.—The Chinese Assembly today acceded to the demand of the military commanders in Pekin, who yesterday insisted that the Assembly approve the selection of cabinet ministers made by President Yuan Shi Kai. The commanders declared that unless this was done they would assume the control of affairs and it was considered that this would lead to a personal dictatorship of Yuan Shi Kai, supported by the military. At today's meeting of the assembly a vote was taken on Yuan Shi Kai's nominees for cabinet officers, and, with one exception, the entire list was approved.

SETTLEMENT NOT IN SIGHT.

Executive Board of Weaver's Union Give Own Ideas of An Agreement.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 26.—Frank M. Bump, representing the state board of arbitration, has returned to Boston. He saw only a few members of the executive board of the weaver's union and the members simply gave him their own ideas of a plan which has not been formulated by the body officially, and it can be said that Mr. Bump's visit here has absolutely met with no results towards a settlement of the strike situation. C. G. Wood, a member of the board, stated this noon that Mr. Bump would report his findings to the board, which would hold another meeting next Tuesday. The police have been taken away from the mills, only a small emergency squad being detailed to remain at the police stations near the mills.

SOME OBJECTIONABLE.

Theatrical Producing Managers Confer Over Stage Hands' Demands.

NEW YORK, July 26.—Representatives of the National Association of Theatrical Producing Managers are conferring in New York this week over recent demands made by the stage hands' union, which has become very powerful in recent years. The new contract which the stage hands ask the producers to adopt contains a considerable number of provisions which are considered objectionable by the managers, the most conspicuous of these being paragraphs providing for the engagement of the stage hands during the entire life of any play for which they may have been engaged, and one denying to the managers the right to discharge an incompetent stage hand.

A statement issued in behalf of the managers says: "We are willing to pay union wages and to employ union men, but we refuse to sign any other but individual contracts with our men."

UPBUILDING OF NAVY MUST GO ON.

Otherwise the Panama Canal Should be Abandoned.

Roosevelt Condemns the Democrats for Refusing Battleships.

OYSTER BAY, July 26.—An attack on the Democratic majority of the House for refusing to adopt the two-battleships program was made today by Colonel Roosevelt. He declared that the upbuilding of the navy must go on if this country is to maintain its position among the nations of the world.

"When the Democrats vote down the battleships," he said, "if they are logical they should also vote to abandon the Panama canal. It is an understandable policy to abandon the canal, abandon building up the fleet, and say that this nation shall simply become the China of the Western hemisphere. I do not believe in that policy, but at least it is understandable."

"The one unpardonable thing is to incur responsibility and then decline to adopt the necessary means to enable us to meet that responsibility. It is an outrage from the standpoint of the national honor and interest to go on with the Panama canal at all unless we both fortify it and keep up an adequate navy.

"Furthermore, any talk as to what we intend to do about the Monroe doctrine, the Panama canal, the protection of Hawaii or any other matter is not merely offensive but contemptible if we abandon building up the navy and show that we really have neither the power nor the will, if the need should ever come, to make our words good by deeds.

"The voyage of our battle fleet around the world was one of the greatest moves for peace that this country has ever made. We will become impotent either to secure justice for others or to secure respect for ourselves if we abandon the upbuilding of the navy, for the minute we stop building up the navy, the navy begins to go backward."

PART OF NAVAL BILL FAVORED.

Senate Insists Upon Amendment for Two Battleships.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Senate today agreed to part of the conference report on the naval bill, but insisted upon on its amendment for two battleships and eight submarine torpedo boats. These provisions were sent back to further conference. Senator Perkins, chairman of teh Senate naval committee, presenting the report, urged the Senate to stand for battleships.

BILL MAY PASS HOUSE.

Sulzer to Declare His Intention to Vote for Battleship Program.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Chairman Sulzer, of the House committee on foreign affairs has written to Chairman Burleson of the House Democratic caucus declaring his intention to vote for a battleship program, regardless of the caucus which declared for no ships this year. Mr. Sulzer declared that 25 or 30 Democrats who participated in the last caucus were ready to vote for one or more battleships.

"If enough Republicans support the Senate program we can pass it through the House," said Mr. Sulzer. He now is circulating a petition for another caucus.

SUFFRAGE LEADER RELEASED.

Witnesses Fail to Identify Dr. Smith as Seen on Harcourt Grounds.

OXFORD, England, July 26.—Dr. Ethel Smith, the suffrage leader who was arrested July 23 on a charge of complicity in the attempt to burn down the historic residence of Lewis Harcourt, secretary of state for the colonies at Nuneham Park July 13, was discharged by the police magistrate today, owing to the failure of witnesses to identify her. Two women were seen in the grounds of Mr. Harcourt's residence July 13 by the night watchman and one of them, Helen Craggs, was arrested while the other escaped. Miss Craggs was carrying a quantity of combustible material and spirits.

MILITARY LEAGUE'S DEMAND.

To Insist on Dissolution of Chamber and Re-Appointment of Pasha.

CONSTANTINOPLE, July 26.—The demand of the Military League yesterday for the dissolution of the chamber of Deputies within 48 hours was the result of a congress held at Salonika four days ago, which was attended by delegates from the unions of officers adhering to the league. The congress decided to insist on the dissolution of the Chamber and the reappointment to office of Kiamil Pasha, formerly grand vizier. The following officers have been sent here to obtain the realization of the demands of the Military League, which led to violent speeches being made by several deputies who declared they were determined to submit only to armed force.

SHARP DIVISION IN HOUSE.

Opposition Against Discussion on Supplementary Appropriations.

LONDON, July 26.—The British government was nearly turned out of office by a snap division in the House of Commons this afternoon, the small margin of only three votes saving it from defeat.

David Lloyd George, chancellor of the exchequer, moved that Monday be devoted to the discussion of supplementary appropriations. The opposition protested and forced a division. By dint of a hurried search in the lobbies of the House, the government whips just managed to save the situation.

The announcement that the government had been successful by 136 against 133 votes was greeted by the opposition with loud cries of "resign". The Liberal members have been recently somewhat slack in their attendances at the House. Only the keenness of the Irish Nationalists and members of the Labor party has enabled the government to hold the fort.

LA FOLLETTE WINS AGAIN.

Lippitt Wool Bill Defeated and His Measure Adopted.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A compromise wool tariff reduction bill prepared by Senator Lippitt of Rhode Island was defeated in the Senate tonight and a measure offered by Senator La Follette as an amendment to the Lippitt-Penrose schedule was adopted by a vote of 47 to 20, it was a field day for the Progressives.

Two hours before the La Follette bill was passed the Republicans were congratulating themselves on a victory in the tariff fight. The Lippitt bill had been adopted in committee of the whole by the close margin of 34 to 32. Then the measure passed into the Senate proper, where La Follette was waiting with his amendment, which was the bill he attempted to have passed in 1911. This measure was the bill which carried the day and incidentally brought confusion to the Republican managers.

The sudden termination of the wool tariff fight came as a climax of a day full of surprising events. The Democratic House bill for a revision of the wool tariff was technically before the Senate. The Progressives first voted for Senator Cummins's substitute the rates of which were slightly above those of the Democratic bill. They were defeated, 37 to 14.

Then Senator Penrose came forward with Mr. Lippitt's compromise measure, considerably higher than the Democratic bill, but which regular and Progressive Republicans believed they could agree upon. Led by the defeated Senator Cummins, who said he would accept the Lippitt bill as a "step in the right direction," all but three of the Progressives in the committee of the whole rallied to the support of Mr. Penrose's measure and it was adopted by the narrow margin of 34 to 32. The amended measure then passed into the Senate proper.

In the meantime Senator La Follette, who with Senators Clapp and Kenyon had joined the Democrats in voting against the Penrose substitute, saw an opportunity to pass again his bill of 1911, which President Taft had vetoed. There was a quick rally of Progressive forces and the La Follette bill was introduced as a substitute for the already amended bill. It became the substitute for the Democratic House bill and as such the Senate finally passed it, 47 to 20.

On the first test vote after the La Follette amendment had been laid before the Senate the Democrats and Progressives defeated Senator Lodge's amendment for a tariff commission by a vote of 55 to 31.

Senator McCumber then offered an amendment for the repeal of the Canadian reciprocity law. Senator Clapp said a similar amendment had already been passed on the steel tariff bill, which is now in conference between the two houses. Senator Penrose retorted that it would do no harm to attach the amendment to every bill which was passed.

The McCumber reciprocity amendment was defeated. Senator Clapp objected to again attaching the amendment for the repeal of the Reciprocity law to the tariff bill. He said he did not want to be understood, however, as favoring the Reciprocity act, which he believed the President had forced the Senate to pass "with the baneful lure of patronage."

Senator Williams declared President Taft would not veto such a woolen tariff bill as the La Follette measure if it were passed by both houses and sent to him. He said the La Follette substitute conformed so closely with the tariff board's recommendations that the President would be compelled to sign it.

The amended bill goes back to the House of Representatives and the resulting tariff situation is exactly that which followed the adoption of a woolen tariff in the special session of 1911. The La Follette bill is the same as passed then by the Senate with a raw wool duty of 30 per cent and an average duty of 55 per cent of manufactured goods. The House bill is the same as then passed by the House with the raw wool duty of 20 per cent. Out of these two measures the conference committee last year evolved a compromise which President Taft vetoed, because the tariff board had not completed its woolen investigation. A conference committee will again take up the two bills and attempt to frame a substitute to send to the President.

MARYLAND PROGRESSIVES ACT.

Vote to Select Eight Separate Presidential Electors.

BALTIMORE, July 25.—The Maryland Progressive Republicans in mass convention today selected 16 delegates with half a vote each and a like number of alternates to the national Progressive convention at Chicago, August 5.

Resolutions were adopted empowering a committee of seven to select eight Presidential electors independent of those named on the regular Taft ticket, and declaring that no elector now on the Taft ticket shall be placed on the Progressive ticket unless he first resigns. The significance of this latter clause lies in the fact that six of the existing electors on the Republican ticket are Roosevelt men.

The opposition to the proposal for independent electors came mainly from western Maryland, the Republican stronghold of the state, who contended that to cut loose entirely from the Republican party would weaken the chances for success of their local candidates.

The resolutions, including the provision for independent electors, were adopted by a viva voce vote after some discussion in which delegates from western Maryland opposed the provision by which proposed electors on the Progressive ticket must resign from the regular Taft ticket.

Besides providing for the naming of independent electors, the resolutions denounced the Republican national committee for its decisions in cases of contesting delegations; vigorously attacked both of the old parties on the ground that they are "boss ridden" and cannot give relief to the people, and declared that "the great majority of Republicans in this state, knowing that the laws of Maryland will not allow Theodore Roosevelt's name to be placed on the ballot under a party designation containing the word Republican, are, nevertheless, willing to support him as their candidate for the Presidency without regard to the party name under which he may run."

The delegates to the Chicago convention are instructed to vote on every ballot for Theodore Roosevelt and to vote on all questions pertaining to the organization of said convention in such a manner as to promote his nomination.

They are also directed to "participate in adopting a suitable party name and platform, in perfecting a national organization and in doing any and all things pertinent to such a convention for the people of the land and for the destruction of these special privileges to the few to the injury of the many."

SPAIN'S CORK INDUSTRY.

Exports Shipped to the United States from Barcelona and Seville.

The Valuable Bark is Stripped From the Trees and Made into Commercial Products.

[Daily Consular and Trade Reports.]

Barcelona and Seville are the chief Spanish ports from which cork is shipped to the United States. From the Huelva agency, in the Seville consular district, $5,950 worth of cork shavings was shipped to the United States in 1910 and $15,015 worth in 1911; from the Cadiz agency $16,539 worth of cork wood and waste was declared in 1910 and $10,460 worth in 1911. The total declared exports from the Seville district were therefore valued at $1,165,507 and $883,977 for these respective years, the decrease in 1911 being due in large measure to a lack of shipping facilities. The total exportation of cork bark and shavings and corks from the port of Seville to all countries amounted in 1911 to 12,979 metric tons, 7,592 tons of which went to the United States.

The cork tree is a species of oak (Quercus ilex, better known as Q. Suber) whose outer bark, which is the commercial cork or "cork wood," is first harvested when the tree has a circumference of about 16 inches, and thereafter regularly every 9 or 10 years throughout the life of the tree. The best bark, commercially speaking, is produced when the cork tree is 50 to 100 years old. Instead of injuring the tree, stripping the bark seems to add impetus to the growth of a new coat.

Stripping the bark, which is usually done during the summer months, is necessarily a rather delicate operation, as great care must be taken not to wound the tree. The local method of cutting it by a hatchet, which perforates the bark in complete circles at the base of the tree and at the lowest fork of the branches; this cylinder-like coat by a downward slash is then generally loosened from the inner bark of the tree and is removed by prying with a wooden wedge. The same treatment is accorded such larger branches as will yield bark at least one-half inch in thickness. The bark taken from the tree trunk sometimes measures more than 2 inches in thickness, and the total yield of the tree occasionally reaches 500 pounds, though this yield varies enormously, from 50 pounds upward, in accordance with the age and size of the tree.

After having been stripped the bark is generally left for a few days to dry. It is next weighed and then taken to the boiling station. The simple boiling process makes the bark soft and flexible, and, quite as important, renders easy the scraping off of the woody, weather-hardened outer coating, which is commercially useless.

Occasionally the boiling station is located near the cork forest; in other instances, at the shipping point, where the cork factories are situated. At these factories the bark is sorted carefully, according to quality and thickness, and is then (if for sale as raw corkwood) baled for shipment. It may be said that by far the greater quantity of the cork yield of Andalusia is exported in this unworked state to England, Germany, Austria and Belgium, as well as to the United States. An important American firm has a branch house in Seville from which it ships to its home factory a very large quantity of the "corkwood" to be manufactured into articles of commerce.

Other local factories produce for domestic and export purposes a relatively small number of manufactured articles, although with the installation of machinery the output is gradually widening in scope and increasing in quantity. In the manufacture of these articles there is a great amount of unavoidable waste, which is largely exported in the form of cork shavings, for use in making linoleum and other by-products of cork.

Of all the uses to which corkwood is now put, the manufacture of corks themselves still remains preeminent. Formerly in this consular district corks were made almost entirely by manual labor; the workers cut the bark into small squares, from which they whittled out each cork by hand. At the present time this method is still employed in the small and unimportant "home" factories, where the family constitutes the working force, but the larger local establishments use satisfactory machinery for the production of corks and disks. One local factory, to supply the export demand for the typical "hand made cork" (an almost square cork with rounded corners), has invented and installed a simple moving blade machine, operated by hand; this combines speed and accuracy, and turns out the desired "handmade" type of cork.

The manufacture of a cork is a rather interesting process, when watched from the beginning. Before use at the factory the cork bark in loose bales is boiled for about half an hour to render it pliant; upon drying, it is sorted into at least 10 grades of differing quality and thickness. This sorting is most important, if waste is to be reduced to a minimum, for corks are cut from the bark transversely, and are hence limited in their diameter (rather than in their length, as might at first be supposed) by the thickness of the bark. After sorting, the sheets of bark are cut into strips and squares, according to the length of the cork desired. Next the cork itself is carved out of the small square block, polished by a sand-papering machine, washed, sorted and disinfected. The corks are counted by an ingenious French machine, and shipped in sacks of strong burlap containing generally 100 to 150 pounds.

Cork disks, for use in lining metal stoppers, are fast becoming an important article of trade in the cork industry. In their manufacture simple machinery is employed, operated, in some factories, by an electric motor. Among the other articles in the manufacture of which cork is increasingly used are insoles, life preservers, cigarette tips, instrument handles, polishing wheels, carbureter floats for automobiles and insulating for pipes. These articles, however, are not much made here. For the manufacture of such few cork articles as are here produced, the local factories are, as a rule, fairly well equipped with machinery, when the low cost of manual labor is considered. Many of the employes, especially for the machine processes, are women who attain a degree of dexterity. Electric power from the city supply has been installed in several plants.

The enormous waste of cork which is inevitable in the manufacture of cork articles—approximately from one-half to two-thirds of the total material—is not in reality a loss. Naturally the best of the cork bark is utilized in cork products, and the refuse and shavings are exported to England, Germany and the United States to be used in such valuable by-products as linoleums, cork filling and other composition articles.

At present there is no export duty

GERMANY SINGLED OUT.

Asquith Expresses Amity for All in Speech on Imperial Defense.

LONDON, July 25—Amity and good will for all, with Germany singled out for special mention, formed the keynote of a statement made by Premier Asquith in the House of Commons today, in connection with the estimate for the committee of imperial defense. "For the past decade," Mr. Asquith said, "international relations have been undergoing construction on perfectly settled and definite lines." He continued, "We have cultivated with great and growing cordiality on both sides our special international friendships. They have stood the test of time and the test of bad as well as of good weather, and questions which 10 or 15 years ago might have caused ill feeling or worse now yield smoothly to mutual accommodation in perfect good will."

SILENT CONCERNING BRYAN.

Roosevelt to Attempt to Place His Opponents on the Defensive.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., July 25.—Colonel Roosevelt smiled today when he was told of the reports from Sea Girt that William J. Bryan would follow his trail through the campaign. "Bryan?" he asked. "I don't see that there is any thing for me to say at this time," he added. Colonel Roosevelt intends to attack the Democratic and Republican organizations with equal vigor, as he has already done, in the hope of placing his opponents on the defensive at the outset.

Colonel Roosevelt was irritated by the opinion given by Jacob A. Livingston, New York state election commissioner, to the effect that under the law candidates for Presidential elections could be named by petition by the national Progressive party in this state. "That seems to be a development of the national committee idea that is supreme," he said. "Mr. Livingston will find that he is very much mistaken. He will find that the people are supreme and that he and the politicians are the servants of the people and not their masters."

REGARDING THE NEW CABINET.

Military Commanders in Pekin Urge Yuan Shi Kai to Act.

PEKIN, July 25.—The military commanders in Pekin held a meeting today, at which they resolved to urge President Yuan Shi Kai to insist that the assembly approve his selection of the members of the cabinet, otherwise they will assume control of affairs personally. This action tends toward a personal dictatorship of Yuan Shi Kai, supported by the military, which has been expected for some time.

Green Pepper Canapes
Rhode Island Chowder
Italian Croquettes
Summer Squash
Egg and Potato Salad
Raspberry Ice

Cut from a stale loaf twice as many thin slices of bread as there are persons to be served. Trim off all crust and cut each piece in oblongs about two by four inches. Quickly sauté these in a little hot butter in a frying pan until each piece is golden brown; lay on soft paper to absorb the grease and let stand until cold. Open one or more large, sweet, green peppers, remove seeds and white veins and chop very fine; about half a teaspoonful will be needed for each canape; also finely chop the white of a hard boiled egg. Spread each canape thickly with stiff mayonnaise and over this arrange the pepper and egg white in alternate diagonal lines.

Early in the morning boil some macaroni in plenty of salted water. Rinse in cold water, then cut fine with a sharp knife; there should be three quarters of a cupful when prepared. Free some cold roast of boiled beef from fat and gristle and put through the chopper sufficient to measure one cupful and a quarter. In a saucepan on the fire mix one tablespoonful of butter and two rather heaping tablespoonfuls of flour; cook until pale brown, then add a half cupful of stewed and strained tomato—if cooked with a little onion and whole spice as for a tomato sauce it will be still better. Stir until smooth and thick, season with salt, pepper and celery salt and cook for five minutes; then add the meat and macaroni, spread out on a buttered plate and set away until cold and firm. Break an egg in a saucer, add a tablespoonful of warm water and beat enough to break the stringiness—it must not be frothy. Have ready a quantity of fine, dry bread crumbs. Dust the hands lightly with flour, form the cold mixture into croquettes; dip each into the beaten egg, taking care that every portion of the surface is moistened, then roll in the crumbs. Have ready a deep kettle partly filled with smoking hot fat. Place three or four of the croquettes in a wire basket (previously dipped in the fat to grease it) and lower it into the fat. Take out as soon as cooked golden brown (which should be in a minute or so) and drain on unglazed paper. Keep hot until all are done. They are best served on a heated platter or shallow dish.

Pare and cut four large potatoes in half-inch cubes; boil in salted water until tender but unbroken, and drain. Mix quickly a French dressing—four tablespoonfuls of olive oil, a half teaspoonful of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper and one tablespoonful of vinegar; to this add a teaspoonful or more of onion juice and pour over the hot potatoes, then set aside until chilled. Boil two eggs for half an hour; when cool shell and cut in thin slices. Have a bunch of watercress picked over, washed and dried; arrange this on a salad dish. If there is a pickled beet in the pantry cut from it a few rings—circles, crescents or other fancy shapes. Prepare a second quantity of the French dressing and cut fine a few sprigs of parsley. Arrange the potatoes and egg in alternate layers on the cress, pour over the French dressing and garnish with the beet and parsley and a few pimolas. The advantage in this method of preparation is that the dressing is more thoroughly absorbed by the hot potato and neutralizes certain alkaline properties which are found in this vegetable, thus making it more digestible.

Boil together for 10 minutes one cupful of sugar and a pint of water. Reserve two tablespoonfuls and add to the remainder a teaspoonful of granulated gelatine which has been soaked in two tablespoonfuls of cold water until soft. Strain and when cold add two cupfuls of raspberry juice and one cupful of currant juice (pressed from the crushed fruit), then freeze. When half-frozen add a meringue made with the stiffly-whipped white of an egg and the reserved syrup. Finish freezing and pack in ice and salt for two hours.

Southern Blackberry Cobbler—Line a deep earthern pudding dish with pastry rolled out one-quarter of an inch thick; fill with fresh blackberries. Sprinkle with one-half a cupful of sugar, cover with a top crust and press down the edges. Bake slowly for three-quarters of an hour and serve hot with cream and sugar.

Blackberry Shrub—Pick over and wash the berries; mash and heat over, but water until the juice flows freely, then press and strain. To two quarts of the juice add one pound of sugar. Tie in a muslin bag one ounce of stick cinnamon, two dozen cloves and two dozen allspice. Drop this bag in a saucepan with the sweetened juice, heat slowly and boil for 15 minutes. Set aside and when cold take out the spices, add one pint of good brandy and bottle.

Blackberry Pudding—Mix together one pint of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar, five well-beaten eggs, one cupful of milk, one-quarter of a cupful of melted butter, one teaspoonful baking powder and two cupfuls of mashed blackberries. Bake and serve with a sauce made of one cupful of the berries rubbed through a colander, one cupful of water, one tablespoonful of cornstarch, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, a speck of salt and one tablespoonful of butter; stir the cornstarch, dissolved in a little cold water, into the hot juice, boil for five minutes, sweeten and add the butter just before serving.

Steamed Blackberry Roll—Roll a regular biscuit dough out into a square about one-quarter of an inch thick and spread your blackberries, sweetened to taste, over it, leaving sufficient dough at the edge to pinch together. Now turn it over and bring the two edges together, thus rolling it light. Sew it in a cloth, giving it room to swell, and steam for one hour. This is good served with any kind of pudding sauce.

Blackberry Jam—Pick over the berries carefully. Put in the preserving kettle over the fire, and after they have begun to cook stir frequently. Boil for 20 minutes. Rub through a fine sieve (if the sieve allows the seeds to pass through, take a cheese-cloth bag) and measure. To every quart of juice allow three cupfuls of granulated sugar. Heat slowly, stirring often, and simmer for three-quarters of an hour.

Blackberry Jelly—Take fresh fruit, but ripe, pick over, put in a stone jar or thick agate ware kettle; cover and stand over the fire in a pan of boiling water until the berries are soft. Mash and squeeze out the juice, turn it into a jelly bag and allow it to run through without pressing. Measure it, and to every pint allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Put the juice in an agate or porcelain-lined kettle, bring quickly to a boil and boil rapidly for 20 minutes; add the sugar and stir until dissolved, let come to a boil, take from the fire, pour into glasses and set aside to cool. When cold, pour over the top of each glass enough melted paraffine to make a thin film. If desired, paper can be pasted over this, but it is not needed except as a protection from dust.

Preserved Blackberries—For every pound of fruit allow a pound of sugar. Cover the blackberries in layers with the sugar and let stand for an hour. Put into the preserving kettle, adding no water, as sufficient juice should have exuded from the fruit to prevent scorching. Put the kettle over the fire where the berries will slowly heat. When thoroughly heated, drain from the liquor. Return the syrup to the fire and boil for five minutes; add the blackberries, put the kettle on the back part of the stove and let the fruit slowly heat without stirring. Let it stand until thoroughly heated (about 15 minutes) fill the jars and seal at once.

DEDHAM WINS BY 14¾ TO 12.

Defeats Meadow Brook Team for Watch Hill Cups—Two Polo Events for Overture Prizes.

Dedham defeated the Meadow Brook team at Point Judith in the polo tournament Thursday, winning the event for the Watch Hill cups by a score of 14¾ to 12. The victory was largely on handicaps, as Meadow Brook allowed the winners nine goals. The Waterbury brothers were not as accurate on the ball as usual and the team did not square away to try to overcome the big lead allowed in handicap until it was too late.

Shaw was the star man for Dedham. On a fast mount he made several sensational rides across the field and scored his goal. In the third period he drove the ball clear across the field, but missed the goal. At the opening of the sixth period Shaw secured the ball from the opposite field, smashed it across to the other end and drove a pretty goal. On the next goal by quick work he outrode the field and just as the period ended made the goal.

Larry Waterbury was the principal goal maker for Meadow Brook, but Reynal gave a good account of himself and did fine work with the mallet, as well as doing effective blocking.

There were two events for the overture cups, the first being Kansas City against Point Judith. This went to Kansas City, 4½ to 2½ goals, and was chiefly remarkable for the large number of penalties. Five fouls and a safety were the record against Kansas City while Point Judith, composed of army players, had three fouls and a safety. The match was in the handicap class, Point Judith receiving two goals.

The second was between the Philadelphia Freebooters and the Philadelphia Country Club, in which the former was an easy winner, 12 to 7½ goals.

A special six-period match between Piping Rock and Perroquette went to the former, 5 to 3.

GRANT'S TELEGRAM TO SHERMAN

(Boston Transcript.)

The telegram which General Grant sent to General Sherman just before the famous march to the sea now attracts renewed interest from the fact that it is to be sold at auction. That such a telegram was in existence may not be generally known. But the document is important and tends to show that the devastation of that terrible march was not alone due to the inclination of the man in command. General Grant sent to Sherman an expression of his confidence that the army would clean the country of railroad tracks and supplies, would arm the negroes and would "move every wagon, horse, mule and hoof of stock." In other words, military necessity required that Sherman should do as he did. And the great general who later said, "Let us have peace," saw the necessity of devastation before peace, and could direct the movements of an officer who was compelled to adopt a method that made true his saying that "War is hell."

THE ISLAND OF FOL-DE-ROL.

[S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.]

The country will go to smash,
The wicked alone will thrive;
The rich will get all the cash
No honest one may survive,
Unless we elect the man
My party permits to lead;
This is the only plan
On which 'tis safe to proceed.
And where did I find this out,
And how do I know it all?
It is candidly talked about
On the Island of Fol-de-Rol.

We are rushing headlong to woe,
Conditions get worse and worse;
The only hero we know
Is the one with a bulging purse;
Virtue has ceased to be
A thing to command regard;
Vice governs triumphantly,
While honor is strictly barred.
And where did I find this out,
And, how do I know it all?
It is candidly talked about
On the Island of Fol-de-Rol.

The world was never so bad
In the past as it is today;
All the good that it had
Is swept forever away;
There is nothing but gloom ahead,
And nothing but wrong in store;
Courage and hope are dead
And worthiness is no more,
And where did I find this out,
And how do I know it all?
It is candidly talked about
On the Island of Fol-de-Rol.

The wicked alone succeed,
While the righteous must lag behind;
The blind are chosen to lead
By those who are weak and blind;
The da of our doom is near,
The wrath of the gods is stirred;
Already the clouds appear,
The thunder will soon be heard,
And where did I find this out,
And how do I know it all?
It is candidly talked about
On the Island of Fol-de-Rol.

THE GRADE CROSSING MUST GO.

The elimination of grade crossings is still one of the most important features of railroad management and must continue to be so for a long time. This is true because the work is so expensive that companies cannot afford to do it except gradually, and also because in spite of what has been done already in this direction the number of fatalities at such places is larger each year, on account of the increased number of automobiles in use. Some states have spent millions in aiding the railroads in this work and the necessity faces all of doing much more. Some which have not been very liberal in this respect will be obliged to expend hundreds of thousands of dollars for this purpose in the next few years. The need of the work is shown in figures by the statement that 12½ per cent of all railroad accidents in this country occur at grade crossings. This is sufficient to indicate the necessity of eliminating all these, so that this element of danger may be removed from the operation of the roads.

There is no attempt on the part of any one familiar with the conditions to minimize the need and little opposition from either railroads or states to making expenditures for this purpose as rapidly as the funds at command will permit, but with both states and roads there is a limit to the ability to use money for this work in any year and so the elimination must be made gradually. It is well, however, that it is being done even in that manner, in view of the vast gain which comes in the matter of safety in crossing railroad tracks. So long as some progress is being made there can be a feeling of satisfaction, and of course the total amount of work of this kind on all the railroads and in all the states is large, though it may not seem so in comparison with what remains undone at the end of each year. The work is going steadily on and much relief is felt all over the country.

It should not be considered in this connection that the railroads are responsible for all the accidents at grade crossings. It is not improbable, indeed, that in the majority of such cases the responsibility lies with the victims, who have not exercised due care but have driven upon the tracks in a reckless manner, without sufficient thought as to whether they were free from danger. The great mistake which the railroads made was in laying their rails at grade, so that crossings would be dangerous. That fact is realized now, and it means the expenditure of many millions to rectify what ought never to have been done. In some cases there is excuse in the fact that when the rails were laid there were no indications that crossings would ever be desired, but that is not a reason for all the ill-advised construction of railroad lines. In many cases a little forethought would have shown that there was every reason to expect that crossings would be required in particular places with the natural growth of the section traversed.

It is because the railroads are not wholly to blame for the construction of grade crossings that the state or the city or town unites in bearing the expense of their elimination. If a crossing was made after the road was built it is not the latter which is responsible for its construction, but the state of the municipality. It is only just, therefore, that both should share in the expense of removing this source of danger to those who use the streets. It will be many years before all grade crossings will be removed, but every year a gratifying gain is made and a nearer approach to the realization of safety is reached. It is expensive work, but it pays and must be done. Not to do it would be criminal, and to do it is an act of wisdom, economy and justice which cannot be overlooked.

PENNSYLVANIA IN CHICAGO.

The direct development in the third party movement is the call for a mass convention of Pennsylvania Progressives in the green room of the Congress Hotel, Chicago, about three hours before the National Progressive convention is to be held, for the purpose of electing delegates to that body. No persons will be able to attend the mass convention for the election of delegates except those who go all the way from Pennsylvania to Chicago. It is further recommended in the call that the delegates and alternates to the Republican convention, who followed Flinn in his bolt, should be elected to the new convention. It is not likely that there will be many other persons present in the green room of the Congress Hotel August 5 and Flinn will be able to secure a delegation to the national convention of the new party of which he can be entirely sure. He is taking no chances of having undesirable delegates or any who antagonize him, as some of the Pennsylvania Progressives do.

As a means of obtaining an expression of opinion from the Progressives of Pennsylvania this is the most preposterous proposition which can be imagined. It is indescribably funny when it is adopted as a means of securing the nomination of Roosevelt, who has been complaining that the bosses are in control of the Republican party, that the common people do not have an opportunity to govern themselves, and that his mission is to lead them in a revolt against their tyrants and make sure that every individual voter shall be able to express his preference. A Pennsylvania state convention held in a Chicago hotel in the interest of the candidate of the people as against the candidates of trusts and bosses is too violently comic for even the vaudeville stage. If any idea so fantastic were put on the stage in a musical comedy it would be condemned as too wild for real satire. Yet four Roosevelt leaders sign this call, one of them being the dean of the law school of the University of Pennsylvania.

MORE AGRICULTURAL DEPARTMENT TROUBLE.

Probably Secretary Wilson is a perfectly upright man, and it may even be that he is a judicious man. Yet for some reason the Department of Agriculture is in an amount of controversy and a state of investigation which does no good to the President, who needs all the help he can have, and does not receive as much from his cabinet as he ought.

Not long ago there was a serious scandal about Florida lands. Earlier there had been some trouble about lands in the far West. Secretary Wilson's part in the conspiracy in his department to force Dr. Wiley out on charges was not creditable to him. Before the conspiracy culminated the President stopped the matter; there was an investigation, the doctor was vindicated and the President wrote him a handsome letter. If Wiley was right Secretary Wilson and some of his subordinates were wrong, and so was the Attorney General, who had delivered an opinion that Wiley had violated the law and ought to be removed. Yet Wilson was left in office, and so were McCabe and the Attorney General, though all of them were culpable if Wiley was deserving of the letter which the President wrote to him. Ultimately Wiley resigned, partly for more gay but partly because his position was uncomfortable, and the fact that Wiley is out and Wilson and McCabe are still in is one of the counts in the case against the President.

Now there is a story of Wilson's obtaining a job at $10,000 a year for his son in a company which is supposed to be under some obligations to the Secretary. The president of the company says the young man's salary is only $5,000, which is immaterial, and the Secretary says he did not ask for the place for his son, which may also be immaterial. Very likely Wilson's conduct was perfectly correct, and yet there may be an impropriety in the son's taking that particular place. If there were none, the fact would remain that the frequent difficulties in which the Department of Agriculture has been are a serious embarrassment to the President, who has not surrounded himself by men who bring strength, popularity and political support to the administration.

Congressman Underwood, the majority leader in the House of Representatives, declares himself strongly on the matter of absenteeism of members at this time, when important matters are under consideration and there is a general desire to finish the business and adjourn. He gives notice that he proposes to object to any request for unanimous consent for leave of absence on account of business. The important business, he says, "for a man who holds a commission from a constituency to represent them on the floor of the House is for him to attend in Washington." So it is.

Thomas W. Phillips of Newcastle, Pa., who was one of the largest independent oil producers in the country, left in his will to various churches and religious institutions bequests of about $75,000, which are effective only on condition that the beneficiaries do not solicit or accept money from John D. Rockefeller or from any funds established by him. Is this another blow at "tainted" money, or simply a piece of posthumous animosity against a business rival?

Former Governor Lucius F. C. Garvin is apparently the leader in Rhode Island of the movement in favor of Colonel Roosevelt and his third-party candidacy. He was elected chief executive of the state on the Democratic ticket and has always been classed as a Democrat, although some of his more advanced radical ideas were frequently too much for that party. It is a fairly safe guess that he will be Progressive candidate for governor this fall.

The British protest against the clause in the Panama canal bill discriminating in favor of American vessels does not seem to have disturbed Congress greatly, and if England hoped to frighten that body by her notice she has been mistaken. Neither are President Taft and the members of the cabinet much concerned, the President leaving a decision in the matter to Congress.

Woodrow Wilson, it is reported, will make uniform revision downward of the tariff the central issue in his speech accepting the Democratic nomination for the Presidency.

The decision of the court to keep Harry Thaw in the asylum for the insane will be approved by the public. "Let us have peace!"

Sunday School and Congregation of Methodist Church Picnic at Morton Park and the Beach.

[Regular correspondence of The News]

The Sunday School and members of the congregation of the Methodist Episcopal Church held their annual picnic Thursday at Morton Park and the beach, Newport. One of the largest cars was altogether too small for the 113 who managed to climb into it, for many stood between the seats all the way and a number on the running board. The special reached Morton Park at 10:45 and left for the beach at 12:30. Meanwhile the children spent the time in swinging and roaming about the grounds and eating their picnic dinner, supplemented with orangeade, bananas and peanuts. They left the beach at 5:30, going to Stone Bridge for the sake of the longer ride, as they did in the morning. The car was in charge of Conductor Perry B. Anthony and Motorman Miles Hyan.

Mrs. Thomas B. Kirk and her daughters, Annie and Elizabeth, of Connecticut are here for a month's visit.

Mrs. Charles King is spending the season at her summer home at Island Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Finck of New York have moved into the old Thomas house on Child street and a number of their friends have come here to board with Miss Nellie Davis.

Miss Julia Lamion of Haverhill is guest for a week of Mrs. Annie T. Boardman.

Mr. Charles Westgate of Boston, who has been spending a week with his nephew, Mr. Edward C. Faulkner, has gone to Fall River to visit his sister, Mrs. James K. Tallman, formerly of this town.

Mr. M. S. Falcon and family and Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Dowers and their son Byron, of Attleboro, are here for a fortnight and are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bourne of New York and Mr. William C. Long and daughter Edna, of Illinois.

Hill Crest Tea House seems to be meeting popular favor, judging by the number of automobile parties going there for entertainment. Wednesday there were guests from Newport, Tuesday from Providence and earlier from Bristol.

The Jolly Ten Young Women's Club of Fall River are spending a week at the American Belle cottage.

Miss Mollie Smith and Miss Bertha Crocker are at the Hotel Imperial, Narragansett Pier, for a week.

Mrs. Frank E. Rowell, her son Raymond, and daughter Marion, formerly of this town and now of Fall River, have gone to Maine to spend the summer.

Miss Doris Tilson is entertaining her cousin, Miss Clara Mosher, at her summer home at Stone Bridge.

Mrs. Patrick F. Murphy is spending the week with Jamestown friends.

Miss Annie Green of Newport, Mrs. Hearn and family and Miss Edith Myles of Fall River are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Cobb and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Considine, who have been visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. Dennis Murphy, on Wapping road, have returned to New Bedford. Miss Mary Murphy went with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Whitworth, who have named their new cottage "The Ivy" have moved into it and are entertaining several guests.

THE INDUSTRIAL WORKERS' DEFEAT.

[Boston Transcript.]

The self-invited participation of the Industrial Workers of the World in the New Bedford strike has yielded results that have a decided flavor of comedy, but that carry, notwithstanding, a salutary lesson. First, the Industrial Workers of the World invited the American Federation of Labor, represented by the striking weavers, to form an offensive and defensive alliance; the weavers refused. Next, the Industrial Workers of the World notified the weavers that if co-operation were not established within 24 hours the Industrial Workers of the World would break the strike by returning to work; the weavers paid no attention. Next, the "leaders" of the Industrial Workers of the World advocated ending the strike, but their "followers" refused, with violent emphasis. Finally, leaders and followers have agreed to go back to the mills, but the doors of the mills remain inhospitably closed.

The special and general outcome of the Industrial Workers of the World activities is, therefore, complete collapse—for which desirable conclusion the authorities as well as the Federation of Labor deserve hearty thanks. If Lawrence had met imported outlawry with the decision and firmness displayed at the very outset by the officials of New Bedford, Lawrence would have had no riots to suppress. And the persons who are responsible for the peace of other cities into which this anarchistic organization may seek to come should heed the contrast and seasonably adopt the New Bedford method.

WHAT ETON BOYS READ.

[London Daily Mail.]

Mr. Burcher, who has been in charge of the school library at Eton for 29 years and who is now retiring, says that the present Etonians read Rudyard Kipling's books more than any other author's. Each boy is allowed to select one novel a week, and Mr. Kipling's books are always in great request. The works of Dickens, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, George Eliot, Charlotte Bronte and Sir Walter Scott are all read by the boys. Charles Kingsley used to be, but he is seldom asked for now. The boys are very fond of books on sport and history.

Roosevelt to Stump the State and Full Progressive Tickets to be Named.

Public Utilities Commission Safeguarding the People—Gypsy Marriage at Rocky Point.

The announcement that Theodore Roosevelt will take the stump in Rhode Island this fall in the interests of the Progressive party was made Thursday, when the executive committee met for organization. Former Governor Lucius F. C. Garvin, who has enrolled himself as a Progressive, made the announcement. Besides organizing, the committee began plans for the naming of a full state ticket, a full Assembly ticket in every city and town in Rhode Island, and three Congressional candidates for the coming election. Assurance was also given that there would be a Progressive candidate for United States Senator before the 1913 legislature when the General Assembly convenes to elect a successor to Senator Wetmore, whose term is now drawing to a close. The new party, it was stated, would make a determined contest to secure control of the state next fall, in order to do this, headquarters are to be opened in Providence within a few days. When the nomination of Roosevelt is made at the convention to be held August 5 at Chicago, former Governor L. F. C. Garvin will be one of the men who will second his nomination. The definite assurance that the former President would come to this state in the interest of the new party was given to Dr. Garvin Monday, when he lunched with Colonel Roosevelt in New York. At that time the whole situation in Rhode Island was thoroughly canvassed, and the head of the Progressive party was told that everything pointed to a successful outcome here, if he would take the field for a time.

The Public Utilities Commission has taken action to provide safeguards for the traveling public at grade crossings in the towns of Lincoln and North Smithfield. Illuminated warning signals, the re-location of warning signs and a rigid enforcement of certain rules are some of the recommendations adopted by the board which will be transmitted to the Rhode Island Company. This drastic action is the outcome of a tour of inspection made over the lines of the Providence & Burrillville Street Railway. The commissioners, in many instances, did not find the conditions to their liking. They have requested that the railroad company see that all cars when approaching certain grade crossings be under full control. The commission has also received a formal complaint signed by 50 citizens of West Barrington, in which they charge the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company with maintaining excessive and unjust discrimination in rates. The petitioners ask for a 10-cent fare.

A gypsy marriage which had been delayed for a period of 10 days because of the failure of the bride-to-be to arrive, and for various other reasons, was performed at the Rocky Point base ball grounds Thursday afternoon. Amid a riot of color, blazing forth in the peculiar, yet characteristic costumes, Annie Restick, the 20-year-old Russian gypsy, and Bob Stevenson, the bridegroom, who is considerably smaller and younger in appearance than his bride, were pronounced man and wife by King Ephraim John, who performed the Romany ceremony. There was no official legal marriage such as would be recognized under the Rhode Island statutes. This, King Ephraim said, would be carried out later, when the bridal couple reach their home in Elizabeth, N. J. No attempt was made to take out a marriage license in the town of Warwick, where the tribe has been located since the arrival in this state. Dr. Gardner T. Swarta, secretary of the State Board of Health, hearing that a marriage was about to take place, visited the camp several days ago and explained the law to King John, advising him to follow it to the letter. The statutes provide that in the event of a marriage of a couple, where there is no clergyman of the same denomination qualified to perform the ceremony, the secretary of the State Board of Health shall issue a certificate to a person of that denomination giving him authority to perform the ceremony. This was done in this case and King Ephraim John was delegated to preside over the ceremonies.

Robert L. Brunet of Newark, N. J., has been appointed electrical engineer of the city of Providence by Commissioner of Public Works Slade, in accordance with the provisions of an ordinance passed by the city council authorizing him to select such an official. Mr. Brunet is said to be well qualified for the work which he is to undertake, having had a large experience in this line with the Public Service Electric Company of New Jersey, by which he is at present employed. He is a graduate of Union College, studied under Dr. Steinmetz, whose fame as an electrical expert is country-wide, and comes to Providence highly recommended for his new post, the first term of which will be for a period of two years. He will have general supervision of electrical and gas installations in all public buildings of the city, and of all installations of fixtures and appurtenances pertaining to the fire alarm and police signal systems. He will also have supervison over all electrical and gas systems installed in the streets by public service corporations, and will deal with problems of every character in this line with which the city may have to come in contact. At present he is holding a responsible position with the New Jersey company and it will be impossible for him to sever his connection with it at once. It is believed, however, that he will be able to take up his duties in about two or three weeks.

The razing of the old bank building at the rear of the Board of Trade, Providence, has shown that the architect, John Holden Greene, anticipated in its construction, in 1823, methods which have been believed to have been invented in the eighties. In taking down this old building, to make room for a more modern structure, it has been learned that nearly 90 years ago Architect Greene hit upon the method of construction now used so largely in the erection of modern skyscrapers, and used it with signal success. Steel construction was unknown at that time and Mr. Greene used wood, erecting his frame skeleton first and then adding the brick front with the granite facing, tying the latter to the frame skeleton with great bolts, at each floor. This prevented the outward bulging of the stone and brick and allowed the use of the great granite blocks at the front of the building. John Holden Greene, the architect and the apparent discoverer of this method of construction, was born in Warwick September 9, 1777, son of Thomas Rice and Mary Briggs Greene, and went to Providence, to learn the builders' trade in 1794. While still an apprentice he built a house on Wickenden street for Captain Samuel Allen, which is still standing. He also built the First Congregational Church, St. John's Church, a replica of the First Congregational Church at Savannah, and a large number of private residences. He died September 5, 1850.

Brown University is continuing preparations for its one hundred and fiftieth birthday, to be celebrated in October, 1914. The college was established in 1764. Aside from the spectacular part of the celebration, which will include pageants representing various epochs in the history of the university and the state, there will also be an academic feature, which will bring to Providence distinguished scholars from all over this country and Europe. Every important institution of learning will be invited to send delegates, and leading scholars will represent each of the great departments of knowledge. It is expected that lectures will be delivered, which will state the latest results of investigation and may be preserved in permanent form. The history of the university, which is being prepared by Professor Walter C. Bronson, will be published before that time, and the new edition of the historical catalogue will be ready for distribution. The spectacular side of the celebration will include a pageant in which the university will seek to represent the varied history of the state of Rhode Island. The patriotic societies will be asked to co-operate in presenting to the world the story of the origin and the development of the state and its institutions. Dr. Lewis N. Parker of London, who has had charge of several of the most important recent English pageants, declares there is no part of America whose history is better suited for expression in pageantry than Rhode Island. From the landing of Roger Williams down through the Indian wars, the burning of the Gaspee and the visit of George Washington to Providence and the college at the close of the revolutionary war, the annals of the state offer a fine opportunity for picturesque presentation.

Residents at Narragansett Pier have learned that "Dunmere," the summer residence of W. W. Willock of Sewickley, Pa., was entered Friday night, and jewels valued at more than $3,000 were stolen. Mr. and Mrs. Willock and their friends have been trying to keep the robbery a secret, hoping to aid the police by doing so. The authorities were notified immediately after it was discovered, and have a clue on which they have been working. Private detectives of Burns's agency also have been at work since Saturday. The jewelry was stolen from Mrs. Willock's room on the second floor of the house, while Mr. and Mrs. Willock and their guests were at dinner. The break was discovered a short time later.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Rhode Island State College Thursday Professor Herman Churchill of New York was elected professor of rhetoric and composition. Professor Boardman was transferred from that chair to the professorship of English language and literature, taking the place made vacant by the resignation of Professor F. K. Sechrist. Professor Churchill is professor of English at Nebraska Wesleyan University at Lincoln, Neb. He took the degree of bachelor of arts at Syracuse and master of arts at the University of Wisconsin.

Under the direction of the State Board of Health inspectors are making their annual tour of the tent colonies throughout the state to look into sanitary conditions. Dr. Gardner T. Swarts, secretary of the board, says that so far the camps have been found in good condition. One or two readily saw the advantage of making changes when conditions were pointed out to them. The inspection extends beyond the tent colonies, and before the season is much further along the board expects to have looked over practically every so-called summer colony.

Bank Commissioner George M. Newhall has issued his annual statement, showing a comparative condition of all the savings banks, trust companies, state banks and national banks of the state, with a summary of the assets and liabilities of these institutions. The report shows the total resources of all banks of the state to be $266,373,813.17, an increase over last year of $9,251,893.93, and over 1910 of $17,311,291.73.

Representative Utter left Washington Thursday for Morristown, N. J, where he made a speech in behalf of the candidacy of President Taft for re-election. From Morristown he will return to Rhode Island for a few days.

T. J. Hynes & Son of Wales, Mass., made a clean sweep in the bids for new bridges opened by the State Board of Public Roads. Proposals were received for 11 structures in different parts of the state, and the bid of the Bay State concern in each case was from 20 to 50 per cent lower than those submitted by others.

DUMMY PERISCOPES DETECTED.

Ruse of the Submarines to Approach the Battleships Discovered.

Naval War Game, Which Included Attack Under an Artificial Fog, Ended.

The naval war game of the past week was brought to an end at 3:21 o'clock this morning, with all hands turned out and two features brought into prominence which will be of public interest. Wednesday afternoon the 19 destroyers made a seemingly successful attack upon the battleships under cover of a smudge of their own making, and an effort was made Thursday afternoon on the part of the submarines by the aid of dummy periscopes to steal their way in on the ships, but the ruse was discovered and the scheme defeated. The end of the game took place 50 miles south of Block Island, the destroyer attack well to the southward of these shores, and the submarine attempt off Point Judith.

After their effort the submarines came into port here for a week's rest, while the signal for the ending of the game the destroyers made for port here and were in the harbor about 7 o'clock. Battleship Rhode Island came in late this forenoon and the others may arrive at any time. While most of the vessels will be here for next week, some of them will be sent to other ports, because Newport is not large enough to receive the liberty parties of the entire fleet. One group of destroyers will go to Fall River, as the result of efforts of Congressman Greene, and there will be other distributions.

The week has been a successful one from a technical standpoint, and of course the actual details will be kept by department secrets and duly transmitted to Washington. The ships have been working with special wireless codes, mine fields have been planted and there has been steaming through these fields, with more or less success, even to coming into this bay. It has been reported that the ending of the game was to be an attempt to enter the bay by clearing the mine fields first. This apparently did not take place, since the game was terminated so far out to sea, for reasons best known to Admiral Osterhaus.

The producing of a fog under which to make their attack was an interesting manoeuvre of the destroyers. These 19 fleet craft, burning oil, worked around to the windward of the big ships, and then under orders to make all the smoke possible produced a haze through which it was impossible to see. Thus they formed an excellent screen to protect the fragile craft from the fire of the big fellows. The dash for the ships was made at full speed, and whether they actually came within torpedoing distance or not is a result which is to be announced or not according to the judgment of the fleet commander.

Such a manoeuvre of course could not be conducted without a certain element of danger in it, yet it is necessary to take a chance now and then to learn, and this was one of these times. A time had been chosen for the attack when the sea seemed to be quite free of other shipping, yet before the haze cleared yachts and steamers had their bells and horns going. Just as if nature had thickened up the weather and necessitated these precautions in navigation.

The dummy periscope attack met its failure because there are too many submarine graduates in the fleet who were on to the tricks of the trade, as it were. In fact, Commander Erberle, the regular chief of the destroyers and the submarines, was in this case on duty in the game with the destroyers, which were forming a screen about the battleships. The dummies were quickly detected as stock in trade on board the submarines and the battleships were signalled, with the result that the true periscopes were looked for elsewhere and the submarines were sighted in time to prevent torpedoing the prey they were after.

A part of the time the vessels were in two divisions, Admiral Ward commanding the Blue and Admiral Fiske the Red.

HIS TWENTY-FIRST BIRTHDAY.

Everett Hess Entertains With a Straw Ride, Followed by a Collation and Dancing.

Mr. Everett Hess, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Hess, entertained a large party of young people at the home of his parents on Everett street Thursday evening, in honor of his twenty-first birthday. The affair lasted well into the early morning hours. A straw ride around the Ocean drive was one of the pleasant features of the party, after which the guests returned to the house and a collation was served by a caterer. The verandas and grounds were illuminated by Japanese lanterns and for the decorations flags and potted plants were used. The tables were set on the lawn, under a clump of trees, the effect being pretty. Following the dinner the guests adjourned to the house, where an orchestra played for dancing.

Besides a number of local people there were several guests from out of town, including Misses Sue Whitman and Madeline Brand of Boston, Rosalind Wise and Minnie Kashman of Hartford, Conn., Mr. Whitman of Boston and Messrs. H. Herz and J. Kahe of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Hess assisted in receiving the guests.

A SUCCESSFUL LAWN PARTY.

Affair on First Baptist Church Grounds Proves Attractive and a Money Maker.

The lawn of the First Baptist Church was the scene of a successful lawn party Thursday evening. The affair really began in the afternoon, but attracted most attention in the evening. One of the big money makers was the salad supper, served in the Sunday School room at 6 o'clock.

The candy table was in charge of the Philathea Club, of which Mrs. Howard Peckham is chairman; fancy table, Mrs. Benjamin F. Tanner; lemonade well, Mrs. Thomas B. Tanner, Mrs. David A. Lawton and Miss Lizzie Wood. Mrs. Frank M. Fullerton had charge of the distribution of ice cream. In charge at the novelty table were the young members of the Performance Band, in charge of Mrs. Harold M. Sherman and Miss Elsie Petzka. The vegetable table was in charge of Mrs. Thomas Tanner and Mrs. John Austin. Thomas H. Tanner, Jr., tended the ring table.

The supper committee comprised Mrs. Kault, Miss Nason, Mrs. L. A. Gleason, Mrs. W. F. Williamson, Mrs. William Goddard and Mrs. Charles Kault. The tea and coffee tables were in charge of Mrs. Charters and Mrs. Nason, while those serving ice were Miss Amelia Tanner and Mrs. D. B. Hazard. Mrs. Honeywell, Miss Evelyn Honeywell and Mrs. Glazier sold cake.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of The News.]

The song recital at the Casino Thursday evening was a successful musical entertainment. Mr. Horatio Connell, who sang selections from Haydn, Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, Wolf, Wure, Chaminade, Hammann, Loewe and several old English and old Irish songs, came with a reputation as a soloist of high merit and long experience, gained in musical festivals and with the leading musical organizations, and fully sustained this reputation. He was assisted by Mr. Otto James of Newport as accompanist.

With the return of the torpedo fleet and awaiting the arrival of the battleships activity in the social world again revives. The summer has proved thus far the gayest for many years here. The Yacht Club was the social centre this afternoon, when Mrs. John Price Wetherill gave a tea and her guests watched the races from the pier.

Mrs. Levy entertained at a bridge tea Thursday afternoon.

Pay Master John Knapp, who has been spending a few days with Captain and Mrs. Knapp at the Bay View, returned this morning to his ship, the Dolphin.

Mrs. Allen Clark entertained at bridge and a chafing dish party at her cottage on Green lane.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dorrance of Houston, Texas, left this morning for a motor trip through the Massachusetts hills.

Mrs. and Miss Vaill of St. Louis have arrived at the Gardner House for the season.

Admiral Silas Casey, U. S. N., is recovering from a bad fall which he had Tuesday.

Mrs. David Barry and her daughters, formerly of Providence, but now of Washington, are spending the season at the Bay View.

The Bay View and the Casino seem the gay places for the bridge players every evening. Dancing continues to be the popular amusement for the "younger set" every evening.

Fla., is spending his vacation with his wife and son at his cottage on Conanicus avenue.

Miss Reynolds, who has been guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Watson, has returned to Boston.

Tug S. Thomas Brown was tied up at Ferry wharf Thursday, awaiting a tow.

A shower which was quite heavy, though it lasted only a few minutes, passed over the island at about 3 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Samuel Wetherill will leave Saturday in his 18 foot knockabout for Marblehead.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—Mr. John Philip Hill of Baltimore is guest of Mr. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler at "Cliff Lawn."

—Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Fraser of New York are visiting Mrs. Fraser's sister, Mrs. McQueen, on their return from Nova Scotia.

—Power boat Malachrino arrived off the Newport Yacht Club pier early Thursday evening after a successful run from Provincetown.

—Mr. Widener's 30-footer Eleanor has been launched at the shipyard and will be ready to sail in a short time. Thirty-footer Breeze will go over Saturday or early next week.

11—Trading was quite active during the first hour and opening prices showed general improvement, until realizing sales brought some recessions. General Electric made partial recovery from its decline.

—The depression in the pavement at the cyclone near the Hall & Lyon store claimed a victim this morning, when a wagon loaded with ashes had the rear wheel caught and it looked like a case of taking the wheel off.

—It begins to look as though the Outer Fountain Fishing Club would need to drop the word "fishing" from its nomenclature. It is out again today in flagship Patience, but only for a sail to the Pier. No bait was carried.

—Fire alarm box No. 535 was placed in commission today. It is located on Ridge road, near the entrance to the C. F. Hoffman cottage, "Armsea Hall." The nearest box to the new one is No. 514, on Beacon Hill, fully a mile away.

—Fishing steamer Winona was hauled out at the shipyard Thursday, after catching the first fish taken from a trap in a week. There were nine barrels and eight were squid. There were about 200 pounds of mackerel in the catch.

—Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Tainter of Newton, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Marsh of Boston, Dr. and Mrs. A. B. Wood of New York, Frank A. Cody of Louisdowne, Pa., W. S. Salter of Winchester, Mass., and Ensign A. W. Rieger, U. S. N., are registered at the Perry House.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. Starr Miller arrived Thursday night and are occupying their cottage on Ocean avenue. They were among those, due here on the 6:40 trip of steamer General, who did not arrive until 8:50, via Providence. The wreck on the road was the cause of the delay.

—The arrest for not having filed a trade name has stirred up some business in that line and the owners of "The Tire Shop" have decided, in order to avoid "tire trouble," to register the names of the owners, which they have done. There will be others in also or the police will have more victims.

—Mrs. Annie Dowd, widow of John Dowd, died at her home on Connection street at an early hour this morning. She had not been in good health since the sudden death of her husband, early this year. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Thomas Maguire and Mrs. James J. Dugan, and one son, Thomas Dowd.

—At its meeting Thursday evening Land's End Lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, admitted a class of 56, among those obligated being Mayor Boyle and Postmaster Burlingame. Sunday, August 4, the local lodge will be visited by the Providence degree team, which is composed of 21 members of the police force.

—Work was begun Thursday on the construction of a band stand at the beach, in front of the east section. It is located a few feet in front of the board walk, well above the sand, and stepped up in three tiers, so that the musicians will be effectively arranged. It is merely set on the sand, for in its location it is evident that it will need to be moved before the first real storm sends the billows high up on the beach.

The cost of maintenance of the Home as shown by the treasurer's report, is a little over $2,000, for the support of the sisters, fuel, light and supplies. There has as yet been no expense for the little children who are sent to the home for daily care, this coming out of the general receipts. The report is especially gratifying, as it shows that $10,000 of the debt incurred in the purchase and equipment of the Home has been paid.

There will be a donation day on St. Clare day, Thursday, August 12, when old clothing, linen, delicacies and other articles for the sick, as well as other donations, will be received.

EXPLOSION ON A POWER BOAT.

There was a marine mishap in the harbor, just off Breakwater light, about 6 o'clock Thursday evening. One of those old-fashioned-looking power boats from up the bay had a small spile driver in tow, with a crew consisting of the captain and his wife, and when about at the lighthouse there was what seemed to be an explosion on board.

The captain's wife stood on the stern, just above the explosion, but she did not jump overboard and stood by the launch. Edward Barman, who with others saw the explosion, went to the rescue with his power boat and towed the craft to the beach at Briggs wharf. The spile driver was towed to Gladding's pier. The explosion is supposed to have been the air tank. There was no fire.

NEW FIREWORKS AT ISLAND PARK.

Another free exhibition of Italian fireworks will be given at Island Park next week, although the date will be changed. Instead of Wednesday evening, on which the previous displays have been given, this will be Monday, the change being made at the request of many who have been unable to be present Wednesdays. As usual a new program will be presented, which will contain as a central feature a beautiful piece of fiery color called the Egyptian stapella. This is a new piece, never shown before this year.

PUT YOUR BOOKS IN A SECTIONAL BOOKCASE.

No matter how few books you have or how many, you are not treating them right to leave them exposed on open shelves during the summer when the windows are open and dust is apt to blow in.

You can never really clean a grimy book and there isn't much satisfaction to a lover of good books to have a library of unattractive, dingy volumes which are now enough to be clean.

The Globe-Wernicke Bookcase makes a splendid addition to the furniture of your room at a low cost and is one of the most useful articles you can add to your home. It saves your books, makes them look attractive, and is a constant reminder to you to add more volumes to your library.

MUDDLE OVER PANAMA CANAL.

Diplomacy Does not Count to Rendlig American Ships Through.

Taft's Position on the Arbitration Question—Vice President Sherman's Health, etc.

[Washington Correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Diplomacy is not an art in this country. Senator Root asserted in the Senate that as secretary of state he negotiated 28 treaties with foreign governments and that under those treaties the question of the rates charged by the American government on our own ships going through our own canal could be taken to The Hague tribunal and decided by a foreign court. He did not put it in those words, but he made a statement which, simmered down, means just that situation. Other Senators kindly helped along until it was plain that we have tied up this canal business so that we are in this situation; we have cut a canal costing $400,000,000, and we can't run our own ships through it without paying tolls.

If diplomacy has put us in that sort of a tangle we had better renounce and abrogate all treaties and assert that we will do business on the American continent in our own way and without the consent or concurrence of any foreign nation.

Many men have conceived that it would be a master stroke on the part of President Taft to boldly assert that we own the canal and that we will do with it as we please regarding our own ships and to further assert that the rates charged on American ships is not a question of arbitration notwithstanding the claim of many Senators that such is the case. But the President is so strongly committed to arbitration that he cannot take that stand or at least he has felt that it would be inconsistent with his former attitude. Of course everybody knows that arbitrations means defeat of this government. And that is the muddle we are in over the canal.

Vice President Sherman has never been so long absent from the Senate, and only serious illness would have kept him away. Four years ago, just after he was first nominated for Vice President, he had a serious attack, and for a time it was feared that he might be unable to continue on the ticket or take any part in the campaign. During his service as Vice President he has generally been in good health, but always with the fear of a return of the old trouble.

For a thousand years lawyers have drawn constitutions and laws so obscure and doubtful in their meaning that constant litigation results in their interpretation. A plain, straightforward, readable and understandable document like the constitution of the United States has been the subject of litigation which seems to have no end. The laws passed by Congress every year start new lawsuits. And, as to treaties, they are always drawn with such ambiguity as to puzzle the lawyers in the Senate who ratify them and are ever after the subject of interminable diplomatic correspondence over their interpretation. Just why a law cannot be made in plain terms and why a treaty cannot be made to say just what is intended are strange features of government.

Congressman Hardy of Texas was speaking in favor of the bill to prevent gambling in cotton futures and denounced it as the worst kind in existence. "If a man must gamble," he said, "he had best betake himself to poker. That is fair and equitable if played between gentlemen. But this cotton gambling is a shell game pure and simple. It is a barefaced skinning of the whole people."

Congressman Mann in his capacity of minority leader was trying to arrange to have Victor Berger, the man of one party in the House composed of one individual, address the House for an hour. He told the House that to a certain extent he represented the gentleman from Wisconsin.

"And his party?" asked Sabbath of Illinois.

"No, not his party," emphatically declared Berger.

"I do not attend the caucuses of his party," said Mann, "although he and myself as nominal heads of parties in the House frequently confer."

"And conspire against us," interjected Fitzgerald of New York.

But in the end Mann prevailed and Berger had his hour to talk socialism to the House.

Western men complain against the present obsolete land laws and say that on account of their administration many men are going to Canada. They also predict that some time there will be a rush back home of those who have been misled in going into the far Canadian northwest.

ROCKEFELLER ACTIVE.

Attempts to Stop Advance of Business Into Private Residence District.

NEW YORK, July 26.—John D. Rockefeller is making determined efforts to stop the advance of business into the private residence district, where his city house is located. For a long time retail trade has been moving slowly up Fifty-fourth street, toward the Rockefeller home, but the Rockefeller agents have been watching the movement and during the past few months have been bidding in every parcel that was offered for sale at a price higher than the business buyer cared to pay.

Mr. Rockefeller's most recent purchase in this district, closed this week, is for a four-story brown stone mansion just west of his home. This is his fifth investment on the street and it extends a considerable distance, the restricted area which he has put around the houses of himself and his son. The Rockefeller plan is an expensive one, although his brokers have obtained one or two of the parcels at bargain prices. They are spending at the present rate about $200,000 a month to accomplish the oil man's purpose.

DRIVING AN ALLIGATOR.

Using a child's toy wagon and allowing himself to be drawn about by an alligator, is one of the queer methods adopted by a German sportsman to win a wager. He claimed in a conversation with a friend that there were no less than 10,000 methods of locomotion, and in the dispute that followed he wagered that he could prove it. The bet was taken up by the friend and a trip around the world was undertaken to try out all the various kinds of transportation, and incidentally to devise some new ones. The alligator stunt was carried out at the alligator farm at Los Angeles, Cal.

HIS NOMINATION CONDEMNED.

Taft Leaders Routed by Rooseveltians at San Francisco Meeting.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 26.—Roosevelt supporters among the members of the Republican party county central committee put to rout the supporters of President Taft here last night amid riotous scenes, which threatened bodily injury to several participants.

E. G. Sanborn, holdover chairman of the committee, a Taft man at the first regular meeting of the committee since the Chicago convention, was in the chair when the meeting was called to order. After one motion had been put before the committee, that apportioning the delegates to the county convention in September, Sanborn declared a hastily put motion for adjournment carried, seized his hat and attempted to run from the hall. His object apparently was to choke off the expected resolution endorsing Roosevelt, which the Rooseveltians, having a majority, would carry.

There were 65 of the 85 members of the committee present. Fifteen members joined Sanborn as he fought and pushed his way toward the door, while the 49 Rooseveltes, crying "Steam roller," "robbers," "cowards," fought to keep Sanborn inside the hall. He and his followers escaped. The meeting was re-organized, the motion for adjournment defeated and resolutions condemning the nomination of Taft and commending Roosevelt were passed. Resolutions supporting legislative candidates, pledged to vote for Roosevelt electors, also were passed.

TO ILLUSTRATE.

[Lippincott's.]

Example as well as precept was furnished to the youthful autograph fiend who wrote to one of the world's richest men, asking for an "autograph sentiment" and enclosing a two-cent stamp for his reply. Over his opulchoy's signature came the prompt response on a post card: A penny saved is a penny earned.

PRACTICAL COTTON SPINNING.

Department of Agriculture to Enlarge Scope of Its Tests.

Installation of New Devices in Government Building Will be Great Aid to Industry.

[Washington Star.]

Cotton spinning on a practical scale is to be practiced by the Department of Agriculture, if the appropriation bill that has been passed by the House and approved by the Senate committee goes through. The department has been working with the technical side of the cotton industry for some years since Congress authorized the setting of standards for cotton grades. Prior to that there had been no such thing, as a standard cotton sample, because it had been impossible to get a sample of cotton that would not discolor and deteriorate in a short time by atmospheric action.

The technological branch of the department overcame this difficulty by getting some of the most prominent cotton men in the business to form a committee and select standard samples for the various grades. These samples then were placed in big glass bulbs like immense incandescent light globes and the air was extracted and the bulbs sealed up. These original samples are kept in a dark room, and brought out only occasionally for comparison with other cotton samples. These standard samples have been accepted throughout the cotton world as the true standards by which cotton should be graded when bought and sold.

The present Congress contemplates carrying the technical cotton work a step farther. There is being built a big six-story building on the east side of Fourteenth street below B street southwest, just next to the office of public roads. Here the whole of the technical work of the department will be housed and there will be installed cotton machinery of all sorts from cotton gins to looms for weaving the finished thread.

The department has been working for some time on a method of grading cotton whereby the length of the staple can be absolutely determined. The method now in use among expert cotton buyers is by "pulling" samples. By this method a buyer takes a piece of cotton between his fingers, pulls and smooths it out as well as possible and averages by eye the length of the staple. This is an important matter for the mill man who is using the cotton in his looms, and the buyers are experts, who receive large salaries.

By the method the department has developed the strand of cotton is laid on a ground glass screen and the shadow thrown up, greatly magnified by a light behind it. A map-measuring instrument is then run over the fiber and the exact length found. This is done with any number of strands from the sample and then the length is averaged. The cotton mill men all over the United States have taken instantly to the new measuring system. The state experiment stations in Oklahoma, Mississippi and Massachusetts have already installed similar plants.

In the new building that is to be devoted to the technological work all the cotton devices will be installed together with several new ones. An important feature of cotton selection for the mill man is the strength as well as the length of the staple and its spinning qualities. There will be placed in the be used to determine the speed at which the gin may be run without ruining the quality of the cotton turned out. There will be machines for spinning yarn and some for weaving it, to determine just the quality of goods a given cotton will produce, and there will be special machines designed for testing the strength and spinning qualities of the various grades of cotton.

All this work is in the same general line as the community cotton growing that the department is introducing in the South. In this work each community is pledged to grow a certain kind of cotton and no other, so that the strain of seed will remain true to type and will not be contaminated by accidental hybridizing with a different sort of cotton, grown in the same locality. Oklahoma and Texas already have started on the work of growing a single type of cotton, and there are interesting experiments in the same line being carried on in other parts of the South.

The aim of the extensive cotton installation in the new building is to help the cotton grower as well as the mill man by getting accurate information as to the qualities of various strains of cotton. Up to date much of the technical information about cotton has been at best accurate guess work, depending much on the personal factor of the man who did the judging.

The new methods being introduced substitute facts for personal opinions. Well trained technical cotton men are hard to get, and the bureau of plant industry has had more trouble holding the young men of the cotton force than in any other division. Recently there was a list made of 20 men from this division who had been taken by commercial concerns at higher salaries. The salaries paid these 20 by the department aggregated about $40,000. The aggregate of the salaries to which they had gone was $80,000.

One of the interesting features of the new building will be a section of the interior court carefully barred off and guarded for Dr. Cobb's collection of nematodes, which he is developing and studying in connection with the technological work.

RASH ALL OVER BABY'S BODY
Used to Itch So He Could Not Sleep.
"On July 27, 1909, we left Boston for a trip to England and Ireland, taking baby with us. After being in Ireland a few days a nasty rash came out all over his body. We took him to a doctor who gave us medicine for him. The trouble started in the form of a rash and was all over baby's body, head and face, at different times. It irritated, and he would scratch it with all his might. The consequence was it developed into sores, and we were afraid it would leave nasty scars on his face. When we reached England we took baby to another doctor, who gave more medicine. The rash got no better, and used to itch and burn at night so bad that the child could not sleep. My mother advised us to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After using them for about nine months the places disappeared. There are not any scars, or other disfigurement, and baby is completely cured. We have had no further trouble. Nothing stopped the itching, and allowed baby to sleep but Cuticura Soap and Ointment." (Signed) Mrs. Margaret Gunn, 29 Burrell St., Roxbury, Boston, Mass., March 12, '11.
Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Send to "Cuticura," Dept. KK, Boston, for a sample of each, post-free.

BUNDY AND BRALY WIN OUT.

Remarkable Tennis at Chicago—Many Entries in Events for Point Judith Trophy.

The California players, T. C. Bundy and Harold Braly, proved too much for the entries from Princeton Thursday in the lawn tennis tournament for the Western championships at Chicago, both W. H. Mace and George M. Church being put out of the running for the title in the singles, Bundy accounted for Mace, and Braly, the new-comer from the coast, won through the default of Church, the latter being seized with cramps in the middle of the match. Bundy showed some remarkable tennis and easily outclassed the Western representative, with a score of 6-2, 6-3.

Church took the first set from Braly by a score of 6-2, but lost the next at 6-1. He was obliged to stop after the third game of the next. The Princeton man had just come from a hard five-set match in the doubles and the strain proved too much for him. Braly offered to postpone the finish of the match for a few days but Church refused this. Braly will now meet Frederick Inman of New York in the lower half of the semi-finals.

One of the best contests of the day was the third-round doubles match between Church and Mace and Ludke and Byford, of Chicago. The Princeton players took the first set by a score of 6-4, after dropping the first three games, but were beaten in the next by the same tally. The third was full of exciting rallies and was drawn out to 10-8 before the Princetonians won. Ludke and Byford came back and squared the match with a hard earned 6-4 victory, but the Tigers ran away from them in the deciding one, with the loss of only one game.

The semi-finals were reached in the women's singles. The survivors are Miss Carrie Neely, state champion, who is drawn against Miss Mary Browne, national champion, and Miss Miriam Steever, who is to meet Miss May Sutton.

The annual open invitation tennis tournament of the Point Judith Country Club, at Narragansett Pier, will open Saturday, with a large number of entries in the men's singles and doubles, and the mixed doubles. Prizes will be awarded to the winner and the runner-up in each event, and the winner of the single series will become the possessor of the Point Judith trophy, a big silver bowl. This was won in 1909 by Frederick C. Inman of New York, who again captured it in 1910. W. M. Washburn of New York won the trophy last year in the singles, Inman being the runner-up. Both these players are entered for the meet this year.

J. D. E. Jones and Stanley Henshaw, both of Providence, the Rhode Island doubles titlists, won the doubles at the Pier in 1910, and Wylie C. Grant of New York and Harold A. Mackinney of Providence carried off the prize last season. Henshaw and MacKinney and probably Jones, will take part in this year's meet.

Among other players who are expected to be seen on the Point Judith courts are Richard Norris Williams of Philadelphia, national clay court champion; H. B. Carpenter of Philadelphia; Gustave F. Touchard of New York, national doubles titlist, with R. D. Little; Bernard Law of Philadelphia, James R. Cowan, also of the Quaker City; Gardner and Sidney Beals, Richard Bishop, R. C. Seaver, E. H. Whitney, G. W. Wightman and others of the Longwood Cricket Club, Boston; Gregory, Bryan, Bridgeport, Conn.; Lieutenant W. S. Anderson, U. S. N., A. E. Kennedy and A. E. Kennedy, Jr., New York, and Craig Biddle.

RUSHING WORK ON NEW SHIP.

Launching of Dreadnought New York Officially Announced for Wednesday, October 30.

Work has been progressing speedily on the construction of the new dreadnought New York, which is being built in the New York navy yard. This is shown by the official announcement that the battleship will be launched Wednesday, October 30. The New York, with the Texas, recently launched at the yards of a private shipbuilding concern, will be the largest American warship afloat. There is keen rivalry in the building of the two ships, but it is estimated that the workmen at the navy yard are several months in the lead, although work on the Texas was started five months in advance of that on the New York.

The construction of the New York is under the supervision of Naval Constructor Robert Stocker. Details of the launching have not yet been arranged but it is known that President Taft and other Washington officials will be invited to attend. The vessel will have cost when completed close to $10,000,000. She will have a displacement of 27,000 tons and will be equipped with 14-inch guns, the biggest rifles ever installed on a war ship. She measures 573 feet in length.

MIDSHIPMEN TO BE ASSISTANT PAYMASTERS.

The following graduates of the Naval Academy who, for different reasons, have not been commissioned as ensigns have passed their mental and physical tests for commissions in the pay department of the navy: William E. Moorman of Kentucky, class of 1910; Delos P. Heath of Michigan, class of 1910; Oscar W. Leidel of Illinois, class of 1911; Ernest H. Barber of Kentucky, class of 1912; Josiah G. Venter of New York, class of 1912. These will be commissioned assistant paymasters on the final passage of the naval appropriation bill.

OIL IN THE CAR TRACKS.

Broadway was oiled Thursday and the car company has been sanding its tracks since. Next there will be complaints that the cars have flat wheels. Brand-new wheels will be flattened in a run of a few hundred feet with slippery rails, when attempts must be made to stop the cars within a short distance. The oil tracks on the rails freely, but in treating the roads no effort appears to be made to avoid the direct oiling of the rails, and thus inviting accidents, even though the tracks are at once sanded.

THE REASON.

[Lippincott's.]

The family were seated at the luncheon table in the seashore cottage. "We had a fine game," said father, triumphantly recounting the morning's battle on the diamond. "I caught two flies."

Little Lottie was silent, evidently thinking it over. At last, "Mother," she cried, with the manner of one who has made a great discovery, "I know now why daddy don't ever play baseball in the winter time. It's 'cause there isn't any flies."

NEW MARKET LOCATION.

was to be made, either by leaving litter about or by unnecessary noises.

Alderman Hughes, looking after the interests of his constituents in the Third ward, objected to the location, saying they would spread all over Long wharf, and that a number of people sleep there. The mayor said the "market" would be confined to the southeast section of the wide walk and the police would have instructions about handling the traffic. There was to be no nuisance. Alderman Hughes said he would be there to see how things worked out.

At 8:18 the Board adjourned.

DIES AT THE HOSPITAL.

Young Child Injured at Island Park, Either by a Fall or by Striking a Car.

Wendell Pierce, four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse E. Pierce, Jr., of Fall River, suffered fatal injuries in an accident in the Island Park district Thursday afternoon and died early this afternoon at the Newport Hospital, to which he was hurried.

The little fellow, who was on the beach with his mother and others, in front of the cottage to the west of the park proper, left them and climbed the wall to the roadway, but just how the accident happened no one fully knows. The sea wall is between two small cottages and about five feet from the car track. A car operated by Motorman Murphy was bound for this city and had just slowed down to permit people to move off the track, and so while going past the opening between the two houses was running at low speed. The houses hid the wall, but as the car was passing the conductor and passengers saw the little fellow plunge toward it, strike midway of the running board, and then bound back and roll over the wall to the beach below.

The car was stopped within its own length and a number went to the assistance of the child. It was seen at once that it was a case for medical attention and as the mother came up preparations were being made to take the child on the car to the nearest doctor. This was done, and Dr. Steele at once said he should be taken to the hospital. The car then started cityward with the injured boy, while Dr. Steele telephoned Superintendent Bisbee, and the latter with Dr. Sanford went out in an automobile to intercept the car. In the machine he was brought to the hospital, where it was considered that the case was fatal. There had been a compound fracture of the skull, in addition to a broken arm and bruises.

There was no mark on the car, and it is assumed that the injuries were received on the wall or when he fell to the beach, or both. Whether the lad climbed the wall and started to dart across the track, or lurched forward in trying to gain his balance when he topped the wall, none seem to know. It is even suggested that he did not reach the running board, but that he became frightened when almost upon the car and in his fright, plunged back the short distance and tripped over the wall.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Struggle In "Banana Trust" Raises Knotty Legal Questions.

Pigmy Hippopotami—Another High-Cost-of-Living Problem—Bad Attack of Gambling Fever.

[Correspondent of the News.]

NEW YORK, July 26.—As a war centre New York is fast setting a new record, and to the many wars and rumors of wars that have been rife in the industrial world here for the past few months must now be added the battle of the bananas. Traffic in the humble fruit of the tropics is the mainstay of the pushcart merchant and has become so tremendous that its handling has led to the creation of a huge corporation sometimes referred to as the "banana trust." The fact that this company, according to statements brought out by legal proceedings here, has expended $25,000,000 in the past few months in the effort to drive out an independent competition that has been attempting to secure a share of the business shows the tremendous size of the stake involved. Another effect of the struggle apparently has been to bring increased prosperity to the South American growers, as it is stated that the price paid them has been jumped from 31 to 66 cents a bunch.

The matter was brought into court here through the attempt of the United Fruit Company, which heretofore has dominated the business, to secure an injunction forbidding its rival, the Atlantic Fruit Company, to purchase bananas from growers in Colombia who, the older concern claimed, were under exclusive contract to it. The problem was a knotty one, involving not only an international matter but also a question as to the laws of a foreign nation, and the judge denied the application on the grounds that there were decided differences of opinion as to the laws of Colombia and that the issuance of the injunction would inflict serious loss on the defendant. "This" he said, "is sufficient to induce a denial of the application without consideration of the further argument of defendants that complainant's methods of business have been such that it should not be afforded the assistance of a court of equity." The war is still on therefore and the president of the independent company declares that, while he is not seeking trouble, he will not be driven out of the field and that the people of South and Central America are with him for having broken the oppressive monopoly of the banana trust.

With the cost of living steadily advancing, many local investigators are worrying themselves gray vainly attempting to discover some effective way of halting the upward trend of prices of food stuffs. At present, an interesting angle of the problem is found in the discussion of the part played by the trusts and the tariff and of the relations of these two to each other, which in some cases at least are not those ordinarily assumed to exist. This seems to be plainly indicated by the trust attitude on the proposal to remove the tariff on our largest food import, raw sugar. The sugar trust is on record as being in favor of this move because of its restrictive effect on the cane and sugar beet industries in this country which now menace the refiners' monopoly. While the refiners are willing to promise cheaper sugar to the public in the effort to accomplish their aim, the best posted authorities here believe that in this particular case it would have exactly the opposite effect. They compare the situation with that which has grown up in the case of coffee, on which no duty is levied and show that in the case of this product the coffee trust has grown all-powerful and the price to the consumer instead of going down has doubled.

Such an authority as Chester S. Morey, president of a big Western beet sugar plant, said of this point here, recently: "Free sugar would kill the beet industry in this country. The refiners say, and I believe they have induced many honest members of Congress to believe, that free sugar would mean cheaper sugar to consumers. Nothing is further from the truth. We put coffee on the free list. What good did it do? The importers absolutely control the coffee situation and the price has steadily gone up. The same would be true of sugar. On the other hand if the beet sugar industry is permitted to grow up competition will take care of prices." Thus another kink is added to the high cost of living problem which already is one of the knottiest in our history.

For the first time on record visitors to the New York Zoo will shortly have an opportunity to inspect what is probably the rarest animal that has ever been made a part of any such collection, the pigmy hippopotamus. These pocket editions of the "blood sweating behemoth" were discovered in 1884 in Africa, and it has taken nearly 30 years to secure these first live specimens, although a few mounted bodies have been shown, since their habitat so far as known is confined to a remote territory peopled by blood-thirsty cannibals. The two specimens which have now been acquired, a male and a female, cost the Zoo $12,000, a figure which indicates their rarity.

According to descriptions that have crossed the Atlantic ahead of the pair, the male is 30 inches high at the shoulders, 70 inches long from the end of his nose to the base of his tail, and his tail is 12 inches long. He weighs 419 pounds. The female, believed to be only two years old, is 18 inches high and weighs 176 pounds. In comparison, Caliph, the enormous male hippopotamus who now stands in a mounted state in the American Museum of Natural History, stood four feet nine and one-half inches high at the shoulder, was 12 feet and four inches in length from end of nose to root of tail, his circumference was 11 feet and eight inches, and his weight has been given as close to 6,500 pounds.

Beside the enormous bulk of a full grown male hippopotamus of the common species, the pigmy is like a six-months old human infant of 13-pounds weight beside a man of 180 pounds. In bulk one adult Nile hippopotamus weighing 6,000 pounds is equal to 14 adult male pigmy hippopotamuses.

In spite of the fact that the managers of the Republican, Democratic and Bull Moose parties alike panned up New York as a convention city, Father Knickerbocker has not been entirely slighted in this respect. One convention at least has come his way and while it may not have attracted so much attention as the gatherings at Chicago and Baltimore it is in its way unique. This is the annual convention of the national Association of Hoboes of America, sometimes known as the "Wandering Willies' League," in session here this week. For several days the degenites who have been arriving on special freight train bumpers, have been discussing important questions affecting the nation and the tramp profession. They include many distinguished hoboes whose names and chalk marks are famous along the water tanks of every big railroad in the country, among them being such well known members as "Donoydlidnek" Dangerfield, "Much" Meyers, "Half Soles" Henry, "Mike the Bite" and "Gulper" Kelly, the latter of whom gained fame by causing several Bowery thirst parlors to reduce the price of "red eye" to two drinks for five cents during certain early morning hours.

While many of the sessions have been secret, it is understood that the association favors a platform promising less law and more soup coupled with the most stringent enforcement of the laws against overworking human beings. Contrary to expectations it was decided not to put a Presidential candidate in the field but to concentrate in an effort to secure for the hobo the respect due his profession.

TO BE TRIED ON STEAMSHIP.

Priscilla Steward's Device for Lowering Passengers Into Lifeboats to be Tested at Sea.

[Fall River Herald.]

William S. Scarlett, steward of Fall River line steamer Priscilla, to whom a patent was granted a short time ago on a device to be used for lowering passengers into lifeboats, has arranged for the first demonstration of it on an ocean liner at sea. Steamship Lusitania of the Cunard line on her next trip from New York will carry several of the collapsible baskets and they will be given a test on the run across.

The new contrivance is a simple one, yet in the tests made has proved itself of great practical value. It has sides of net or canvas, with a heavy iron ring at the top. When not in use the weight of the top causes it to collapse and the space occupied then is its own diameter. The rope on which it operates is attached to the davits.

The contrivance is to be tested shortly on United States transports and it is believed that it will give as much satisfaction on them and on board the Lusitania as it has in other tests and that it will be quite generally adopted.

WIRELESS PICTURES COMING.

Wireless messages will be sent across the Atlantic and to other parts of the world by a new system, according to experts, within four months, not only much faster than by the present systems but also with such precision that it will be possible to send pictures by this means. The new system has been taken up by one of the big European telegraph companies and will have a thorough test at the hands of a syndicate organized under the auspices of the telegraph company, so far as the transmission of wireless messages is concerned. Stations are to be erected at Lyons, in France, and at Washington, and the inventor says that he will be able to send at the rate of 200 words a minute.

The improvement consists in being able to control a continuous wave, as compared with intermittent waves by the present systems.

PROSPERITY SIGNALS.

[Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.]

The hardy young athletes at the recent Olympic games are not the only persons who have this year set new high records. Business men of the United States have just accomplished something along this line which proves that Uncle Sam is not permitting his love for sport to make him neglect trade. The fiscal year of the government ends with June 30, and during the period just closed we sold merchandise to foreign consumers to the value of $2,204,222,088. This surpasses our previous high record by nearly $155,000,000. At the same time we bought from foreign producers merchandise to the value of $1,653,426,174, which is about $100,000,000 more than in any previous year in our history.

The balance of trade in favor of the United States—that is, the excess of the value of exports of merchandise over imports—was more than $550,000,000. Of course this does not mean that foreigners must pay us more than a half billion dollars in order to square accounts on the year's business. The aggregate of $3,857,000,000 merchandise trade does not begin to cover all our international exchanges. Our tourists carry immense sums abroad every year to be expended in seeking for health and pleasure. Our corporations must send other millions to pay interest and dividends on stocks and bonds held by foreign investors in American enterprises. In addition this country pays large sums for transportation service rendered by foreign-owned steamships, and premium on fire and marine insurance is no small item in the international account. All these separate transactions meet and offset one another in London and New York, the world's great clearing houses, and at the end of the year it is found that comparatively little actual cash is required to balance the final account, which is another triumph in business evolution.

It has almost invariably happened that when the United States was able to show a large balance on the favorable side of the account in one year, the next year was unusually prosperous, and that is the reason why everybody in this country is now talking confidently of the future.

SPANISH CORK INDUSTRY.

on cork shavings; on corkwood the export duty amounts to 97 cents per 220.4 pounds. There has been and is much agitation of the question of raising this export duty tenfold to encourage the home industry, and the same question is being seriously considered by Portugal. The Spanish owners of domestic factories are heartily in favor of this protective law as are also the various labor organizations, and it is believed by those who are best informed that it is but a matter of time when the exportation of unworked cork will be practically prohibited by the increase in export duty.

SAVE THE CONSTELLATION.

[Buffalo Commercial.]

Brilliant service rendered by the famous warship Constellation in the War of 1812 is too well known to warrant repetition, but the efforts of a Rhode Island society to retain the ancient vessel in Narragansett bay, as a monument to our early navy, should have the encouragement of all loyal citizens. Resolutions protesting against the destruction of the historically famous ship have been adopted by the society and an appeal will be made to Congress to take such action as shall be necessary to prevent demolition of the now practically useless hulk.

At present the Constellation, which has not been to sea in 20 years, is held in commission as a training ship off Newport, though her bottom is rotten and her days of actual service ended. No orders have yet been issued for her removal or destruction, though it is believed that such action on the part of the government is imminent, and the Rhode Islanders are taking time by the forelock in voicing their protest. Congress, however, is not in the habit of paying for sentiment, and unless the public shall devise some means of raising the amount necessary to repair the decaying warship her fate is inevitable.

The Constellation was one of the first warships built by the United States. Her construction dates back to 1797. She is 176 feet long, 42 feet in breadth and has a displacement of 1,970 tons on a 20-foot draft. If the people of Rhode Island cannot see their way clear to provide the fund necessary for her restoration it would not be amiss for the people of the republic to contribute a sufficient sum for that purpose, that the old brig may be retained as a memorial of those dark but glorious days which marked our last serious difference with England.

TESTED AND PROVEN.

There is a Heap of Solace in Being Able to Depend Upon a Well-Earned Reputation.

For months News readers have seen the constant expression of praise for Doan's Kidney Pills, and read about the good work they have done in this locality. What other remedy ever produced such convincing proof or merit?

Morris W. Cook, 69 Bridge St., Newport, R. I., says: "Some years ago I had occasion to use Doan's Kidney Pills and found them to be an excellent remedy. I gave a statement for publication in their praise at that time, and all that I said still holds good. My back ached severely and I had severe pains across my loins whenever I stooped or lifted. The kidney secretions were also irregular in passage causing me annoyance. I finally used Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Hay's Drug Store, and they helped me at once. Continued use disposed of every symptom of my trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

ARBUCKLE PLANT SOLD.

Fleet of Tugs and Vessels, Including the Roosevelt, Disposed of For $76,550.

The Arbuckle fleet of tugs and other vessels, accumulated when Mr. Arbuckle was trying out the scheme of saving vessels by the use of compressed air, was sold Wednesday in New York for a total of $76,850, of which the Roosevelt, in which Peary made his last Arctic voyage, brought $35,200, Mr. Arbuckle made a fair trial of this system of wrecking and it seemed to be a success, if one considers the hauling of the Nero from Brenton's reef and the picking up of the Yankee from the rocks of Hen and Chickens reef. Apparently the Navy Department did not favor his efforts to save ships and he finally abandoned the venture and the plant I was sold. The compressed air plants were not disposed of with the vessels.

THE PRICE KEPT UP.

About Forty Barrels of Mackerel Arrive When the Dealers Needed Them Badly.

There was some fish business this morning. The local dealers were in a bad way for mackerel. They had all kinds of orders, and practically not a fish on hand. They were waiting for the boats to come in, and the local skippers who were out knew they were waiting, so three of them showed up early, about 4 o'clock. The Clara T had 12 barrels and one swordfish, the Thomas B. Congdon 15 and the Wood and Muck 16 barrels of mackerel.

The price kept up. It was predicted Thursday that it would be down, but the record mark made by Mr. John E. Gorman recently was nearly touched by the bidders striving to buy fish for their customers. They came high, but they bought them, and the fishermen felt happy.

OPENING OF THE MANETUCK DOUBLES.

At the Manetuck Tennis Club Thursday afternoon there was much interest in the opening of the doubles tennis tournament, though as far as the play went it was rather one-sided. The scores:

William Williamson and J. S. Brown beat E. Corcoran and T. J. Mulcahey, 6-0; 6-1.

E. Hoffman and C. E. Farnum beat F. I. Marshall and W. Norman Sayer, 6-3; 6-4.

The matches are started each afternoon as soon as possible after 4 o'clock.

WILL REJECT BORAH BILL.

Democratic Senators to Support House Excise Tax Measure.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—Democratic Senators in caucus today determined to support the House excise tax bill, virtually levying an income tax on all persons and co-partnerships doing business of more than $5,000 a year, and to reject the Borah income tax bill offered as an amendment. There was some opposition to the course.

Republican leaders were puzzled to estimate how far the new alliance between the Democrats and Progressives would go in the action of the excise tax bill, to be voted on late today, and the Democratic free sugar bill, to be voted on tomorrow.

Democratic leaders believe they will be able, with the aid of the Progressives, to pass a compromise sugar tariff bill, probably that by Senator Bristow taking at least 40 or 50 cents, per 100 pounds, off the present duty of $1.90 on sugar.

The caucus endorsed in general terms a sugar bill, which Senator Williams later presented to the Senate as a substitute to be voted on tomorrow. It would make a reduction of 33 1-2 per cent on refined and unrefined sugar; a reduction of 40 per cent on molasses and abolish the Dutch standard test and the differentials in duty now existing.

Little sentiment was shown in the caucus in favor of free sugar. The leaders urged that such a proposal would not be acceptable to western states having beet sugar industries, and agreed that the reductions proposed in the Williams substitute bill met the views of Democrats in the Senate.

TWO HOUSES MAY AGREE.

Compromise Expected to be Reached Over the Passage of Wool Bill.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Senate's unexpected passage of the La Follette wool bill presents a situation upon which Majority Leader Underwood of the House thinks the two branches of Congress can agree. Mr. Underwood, also chairman of the House ways and means committee, today said he thought there would be little difficulty in reaching a compromise. In this event a bill almost identical with the one President Taft vetoed August 17, 1911, is again likely to go to the White House within a few days. The former bill was vetoed on the ground that the tariff board had not reported on its investigation of Schedule K. Leaders of both houses say the La Follette bill follows the conclusion of the board quite closely.

The essential points of the La Follette bill and the House bill are as follows:

Raw wool—La Follette bill, 10 to 25 per cent; House bill, 20 per cent.

Wool wastes and rags—La Follette bill, 25 to 30 per cent; House bill, 20 per cent.

Combed wool or tops—La Follette bill, 40 per cent; House bill 25 per cent.

Yarns—La Follette bill, 45 per cent; house bill 30 per cent.

Cloths—Ready made clothing, knit fabrics, women's dress goods, etc., La Follette bill, 55 per cent; house bill, 35 to 50 per cent.

Carpets—La Follette bill 35 per cent; House bill 25 to 50 per cent. These are the more striking comparisons between the two measures.

Chairman Underwood also sees a chance for the cotton revision at this session of Congress. "I am going to call the ways and means committee to consider the advisability of calling up our cotton bill," he said, "Now that the Senate has shown a disposition to enact some legislation giving the people tariff relief we might as well take up cotton."

When the La Follette wool bill reached the House today Majority Leader Underwood demanded that it be sent to conference and the Senate amendment be disagreed to. Representative Payne of New York, Republican, objected to the bill going to conference before it had been referred to ways and means committee. Accordingly, the naming of the conferees was put over until tomorrow.

FORMER YEARS SURPASSED.

The Present Congress May Beat the Record for Passing Measures.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—With still another session of the Sixty-first Congress to be held, the number of bills and resolutions already introduced at this Congress has surpassed all previous records. By March 4, 1913, when the Sixty-second Congress ends, it is confidently expected that a record will have been made which will stand for years. There have been 25,934 bills introduced in the House thus far and 7,249 in the Senate. In the two houses combined there have been 1,092 simple resolutions requiring the action of a single House, 464 joint resolutions and 73 concurrent resolutions. The Senate has printed 887 public documents and 962 reports on bills. The House 887 documents and 1,052 reports.

The extent to which Congress is swamped with measures, never enacted into law, is indicated by the fact that up to Wednesday, when these figures were compiled, only 235 public laws, 61 private laws, 43 public resolutions and one private resolution had been passed.

REBEL LINES DECREASE.

Flock to United States to be Recruited by Employment Agencies.

JUAREZ, July 26.—Three rebel commanders and a generous sprinkling of colonels here today found themselves with an immediate command of only 300 men. Pascual Orzco, commander-in-chief of the Mexican revolutionists, has an army, but it is scattered over northern Chihuahua and eastern Sonora. There is a steady desertion of soldiers who lay aside the rifle to accept section hands' shovels on an American railway.

Since the coming of the rebel army to the border, deserters have continued to flock into the United States to be recruited rapidly by employment agencies.

RIOT AT PAINT CREEK.

Armed Miners on Strike Open Fire on Men on a Handcar.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., July 26.—News of a general riot at Paint Creek, where several thousand miners have been on strike since spring, reached here today. William Springer, a detective, and William Phaup, chief of detectives, coming down Paint Creek road on a handcar were fired upon by armed miners, Springer was killed and Phaup seriously injured. The scene of the shooting was two miles below Mucklow. The armed miners proceeded up the creek, cutting all wires so that no further tidings can be secured. Sheriff Smith is now at work on the situation. IDWdi Staoin etnanl etaoinshrdlunup

10—Copper shares were the features at the opening of today's stock market, Amalgamated and Utah showing one-point gains. Canadian Pacific rose as much, with a two-point advance in Lackawanna Steel. Electrical stocks and Biscuit inclined to heaviness, General Electric soon falling off over a point.

Noon—For a while today there was a moderate resumption of yesterday's late rise in stocks, but the advance was attended by such caution as to suggest something more than absence of public support, probably professional opposition. Hill issues, leaders of yesterday's movement, were again strong; also Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Reading and Amalgamated and Utah Coppers. Amalgamated soon recovered its one per cent dividend. General Electric, recently a foremost feature, collapsed, declining almost 7 points from yesterday's best. Trading was active in the first hour, but fell away decisively before noon with general price recessions. Bonds were steady. Money on call, steady, at 2¾ per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4 to 4½ per cent. Exchanges, $258,331,401; balances, $14,971,748.

THAMES STREET BREAKS.

Transoms Broken at Koschny's and Zeidman's, and Money Stolen at the Former.

There was some excitement on Thames street, near Ann and Gidley streets, late Thursday night or early this morning. It was about midnight when a man entered the home of Mr. Daniel Rosen, the old Ruggles house, corner of Ann street, and was discovered by his 13-year-old daughter, who was awakened by the intruder and showed that she had capable lungs and could use them. The intruder made his escape, though passers-by, Officer Newton and the family all tried to find him, but without success.

The girl stated that the intruder wore a mask, but the lower part of his face was exposed. He threw into the room some patent plaster, which is being used on the Anthony building, alongside the Rosen house, and when he caught hold of the girl he left some of the plaster on her face.

Inspector Tobin went to work on the case this morning. It seemed likely that some one who worked on the Anthony building and knew the condition of the two blocks, was the one who broke in and this noon the inspector arrested Ennorato Santos, a mortar mixer, who has been employed on the Anthony block. The prisoner answers the general description given by the girl and she is quite positive that he is the man. He apparently wore a piece of bagging over the upper part of his face, which allowed his mustache to be seen. The Anthony block is within a foot and a half of the Rosen building, and one working in the former could easily look into the second-story window of the room where the Rosen girl was asleep.

This was not the only break, however. Mr. Simon Koschny's confectionery store at 230 Thames street was entered probably during the last watch and $2.50 is reported missing from the cash register. Entrance was apparently effected through the transom over the door, which Officer Lyons found broken when he returned to Thames street.

A transom over the door of Harry Zeidman's cigar store, corner of Mary street, was also found broken, but no entrance was effected. Apparently the breaks were made while the police were extinguishing lights.

THE CONSUMERS' LEAGUE.

Conditions in This State to be Spoken of at Meeting With the Misses Mason.

An open meeting under the auspices of the Consumers' League of Rhode Island will be held at the residence of the Misses Mason on Rhode Island avenue next Tuesday afternoon, when Miss Edith Howes, secretary of the Massachusetts League, will speak on "The Consumers' League—our Influence as Purchasers," and Miss Alice Hunt, secretary for Rhode Island, on conditions in this state.

The Consumers' League is scarcely more than a name in Newport, but in the state persistent work in its behalf has been carried on for several years, especially in the improvement of the conditions of employes in stores and factories. The League has devoted its efforts chiefly in four directions—against child labor, the sweating system, unduly long and irregular hours of labor and disregard of existing laws. The methods employed the first investigation; second, the creation of standards in conditions of employment; third, securing necessary legislation; fourth, education of the buying public. In this state efforts are being made to improve the conditions of employes in stores and factories, and the large stores in Providence, Pawtucket, Westerly and Newport have been investigated. The chief evils discovered are lack of fresh air, bad air, inadequate supply of seats, lack of drinking water, imperfect sanitary conditions, and for women, too many hours of labor.

Another work of the League is to induce proprietors to sell goods marked with the Consumers' League label, showing that articles thus marked were made in factories where the state law is obeyed, where overtime is not worked, children under 16 years of age are not employed and no goods are given out to be made up in homes. Nine stores in Providence and two in Newport supply the labelled goods.

CHEAPER TO HIRE A BATH-HOUSE.

A boy was placed on probation this morning at the police station, on a robbery charge. It seems that a man went in bathing Thursday morning at the west end of the beach; he did not have any bathhouse and did not check his valuables at the office. Instead, he says he left $15 in cash in his pocket. There were five boys playing about the place and they appointed an investigating committee of two, who found, said the boy arraigned, $12.75, which was forthwith appropriated and the five started out to have a good time. When this lad was caught he had $10.70 in cash, which the man recovered. It looks as though it would have been cheaper to have hired a bathhouse, and besides the small boys would not have been led into temptation.

The police had a man before the court, charged with being a common drunkard. He was an old offender and was sent to the state workhouse for two years. A man surrendered from probation was given another chance, and another was given 10 days in jail for drunkenness.

NOT WORKING WELL YET.

Only a Few Farmers and Peddlers Reach the New Market Location.

Old Dodging Game, On Again This Morning Until Stopped by the Police.

The produce market was again rather unsettled today. While the Board of Aldermen received a request for the location of a public market and the south side of Long wharf had already been assigned by the police authorities, it was not practical to put it into full use this morning and both peddlers and producers were at their old dodging game until overhauled by the police and told to go to the new place. It was rather quiet around the disturbed district and some of the farmers were perhaps a little later in coming in than usual.

In some ways the new location is just what some desire and in others it is not, while nothing but Oak street and its associations will satisfy some. Oak street would not accommodate the entire concourse which used to gather there and this year it is said that the conditions became so congested that the first electric cars were sometimes held up for five minutes at a time on Broadway, to await the removal of teams which blocked the tracks.

Now that a public market has been assigned peddlers and merchants alike will be expected to do all their purchasing prior to 6 o'clock at the new location, and this will hit some dealers who have had buyers in front of their places of business at much earlier hours. Of course there will be no interference with the filling of orders given the day before, but there can be no more stopping and bargaining at unreasonable hours, for if this were to be the case it would draw others away from the assigned market to obtain first choice of the material brought in.

At the Long Wharf market there was not a lively time, because only a few filtered through to the new location but with concerted action it is expected to be a busy place from this time on.

MALLY DISCHARGED.

Counsel in Nuisance Case Find Nothing Against Court's Ruling That Notice Was Insufficient.

Counsel in the case of the city vs. Charles Mally told Judge Franklin, in the district court this morning, that they had been unable to find anything further in the statutes affecting the ruling in the case last Friday. The court at that time, after going into details of the case, said the notice served on Mally was insufficient. It was signed by Cornelius S. Moore, clerk of the Board of Health, whereas the law says it shall be signed by the town clerk. Decision was reserved at that time in order to give counsel an opportunity to look up certain amendments to the law in nuisances cases, but on the point in question apparently there has been no amendment. The court therefore ordered Mally's discharge.

James Harris, aged 17, waived examination on the charge of taking a boat without the consent of the owner; was adjudged probably guilty and bound over to the grand jury in October.

Peter Rhodda, colored, pleaded guilty to simple assault and was fined $20 and costs. He was charged with using a knife in a West Broadway fight, but claimed that he did nothing more than defend himself.

Two cases against John L. Cummings were continued until August 9.

A Portsmouth liquor case brought by the town against Stanley LeDux was postponed two weeks by agreement.

BIGGEST NIGHT AT THE FAIR.

St. Augustin's Hall Crowded With People, Including Division 1 of the Hibernians.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians, Division No. 1, attended St. Augustin's fair in a body Thursday evening, and helped swell the receipts. It was easily the biggest attendance thus far, the hall being literally crowded with people. Tonight the members of the Women's Catholic Benevolent Legion will be present.

One of the valuable prizes of the fair, which has escaped mention, is the building lot on Vaughan avenue, which ranks next only to the automobile. An added feature is the fish pond, which went into business Thursday evening in charge of James Killilea. The awards made Thursday evening were as follows:

Apron table—Centre piece, Mrs. P. J. Boyle, West Narragansett avenue.

Chance table—Bureau scarf, Cornelius Harrington, Grafton street; rosary beads J. Conheeney, Narragansett avenue.

CLOWNS WITH THE DOWNIE & WHEELER SHOW.

The Downie & Wheeler Show present with their comedy department this year numerous "clowns." Frank Belmont and Al. F. Wheeler, Jr., are the principal jesters and associated with them many others assist with comical antics. When intermingling with citizens on the streets none of them would be suspected of wearing the loose robes of a fool, but when they are in the ring with their make-up on they laugh and the crowd laughs with 'em. A jolly lot, who help to unbend, at least temporarily, the cares from the minds of thousands of people.

TILE ART EXHIBIT.

The feast of color spread at the gallery of the Art Association is soon to be at an end. Today the pictures are all in their places, Saturday they may be seen all day, and Sunday after 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Saturday, and Sunday the public is admitted without charge, and many are expected to take advantage of the hospitality of the Art Association. The paintings borrowed from all over the country will soon return to their owners, but the memory of them will remain with the picture lovers who during the past week have enjoyed many hours in their company.

THE THORN MEMORIAL CUP.

This cup, which has not yet been placed on public display, is given by Mrs. Edward C. Post to the Westchester Polo Club as a perpetual trophy in memory of the late William E. Thorn, who was one of the greatest polo enthusiasts Newport ever had. A committee comprising Messrs. August Belmont, R. L. Agassiz and T. Suffern Tailer have been named to act as trustees and the winning team each year will have its name inscribed upon it. Each member of the team will receive a medal, which are now in preparation. The cup is a handsome piece of imported gilt work and those who have seen it have spoken in complimentary terms of the spirit in which it has been donated at this time, when polo appears to be gaining a new foothold in Newport.

NEW MARKET LOCATION.

Aldermen Informed That South Side of Long Wharf Has Been Assigned.

Repairs to be Made to the Jewish Synagogue and More Streets to be Oiled.

The Board of Aldermen held the weekly meeting Thursday evening, Mayor Boyle presiding and all the members except Alderman Shepley present. Considerable routine business was transacted, and there was some talk on the "public market," which had been ordered away from Broadway on account of the noise.

The weekly pay rolls were approved for the following sums: Streets and highways, $2,340.37; police, $1,077.40; fire department, $547.24; city officers, $249.14; firemen in theatres, $48.

Monthly pay rolls were approved: Police, $156.66; Police Relief Association $353.61; city officers, $2,260.86; Nathan Friedman, $16.67; Adolph Koch, $41.66; Rev. Joseph Bloch, $100.

Reuben Mirman was granted renewals for junk shop and junk gatherer's licenses. The Newport Beach Association was granted a license for a shooting gallery and George S. Flagg a renewal of a junk shop license. Gasoline permits were issued to George Peabody Wetmore, L. L. Simmons, A. P. Jennings and George W. Smith.

A communication was received from John W. Burgess in regard to the unequal distribution of light on Gibbs avenue. According to his statement there are 140 paces between the light at Mrs. Gibbs's south gate and the next one south, and only 83 paces between this and the one at "Brent Ledge." Mr. Burgess's house is so situated that it has the full benefit of the long line and he suggested that if the middle one of these three lights was moved north about 30 paces it would equalize things and be of great benefit to his place. He offered to pay his proportionate part of the cost of moving. The matter was referred to the alderman from the Third ward to report.

A communication was received from the Congregation Jeshuat Israel, stating that repairs and painting are required about the synagogue. Last year when such repairs were called for it was found that there was not money enough to do the work, and it was postponed to this year. The communication asked for the appointment of a committee of the board to act with a committee of the congregation in having the work done. Aldermen Leddy and McLeish were appointed.

Andrew P. Conheeney was appointed a special policeman. Mayor Boyle said he is to be a watchman at the beach.

A request having been made to have Waite's wharf made a public highway, the board voted to give a public hearing on the matter August 16.

Alderman Albro said there was a demand for oil on Gibbs avenue, between Broadway and Kay street, and moved that the matter be referred to the street commissioner with directions to oil the section. It was so voted.

Alderman Hughes, at the request of interested persons, introduced a resolution directing the street commissioner to oil Narragansett avenue, between Bellevue avenue and Spring street, and the board so voted.

Alderman Leddy stated that he had looked into the matter of depositing rubbish and sweepings on the old Ocean House site and found that it was being done. He had finally found Mr. Burdick of the highway department, who had stated that the department would at once remove what it had put there.

Moses David asked for a public market, where business could be done. Mayor Boyle said there is no public market, but the wide sidewalk on Long wharf had been selected as an appropriate place to try out this matter of providing some place where producers and peddlers may meet and produce may be secured by the peddlers. He told David that if he were trying to sleep in the vicinity of Oak street he would be one of the biggest kickers against the uproar which has been created there mornings when the peddlers met the produce men. He said this Long Wharf location was selected as offering what seemed to be the least objectionable place, but it must be understood that no nuisance

FOR NEWPORT HOSPITAL.

Proposed Base Ball Game Between Reading Room Members and Officers of Battleship Fleet.

Considerable interest is shown in a proposed base ball game between members of the Newport Reading Room and representatives of the officers on the battleship fleet. Messrs. Elisha Dyer and H. J. Knapp, representing the Reading Room, met Thursday and arranged some of the details. The match will take place at Wellington Park Friday afternoon, August 2, and the proceeds will be given to the Newport Hospital.

On the navy nine will be a number of officers who in recent years have played on Naval Academy teams, and among the Reading Room's representatives will be several who have played on college nines and are still actively interested in golf and lawn tennis. The latter, however, are quite out of base ball, and will have two day's practice, although the naval officers have been inclined to request that there be no preliminary training. The proposed game is attracting interest among the summer residents and naval officers, and it is expected that there will be a large attendance and a considerable sum raised for the hospital.

SCULLING AND SWIMMING.

More Fun at the Yacht Club Races, With Durfee and Squires the Winners.

The third of the weekly races of the Newport Yacht Club members took place Thursday evening off the clubhouse. For the first time the weather conditions were ideal, there being scarcely any wind or sea. There was a fair gathering of members and of the fair sex, and some fun.

The first effort was a sculling race from near the south float around the Viator and back. Six boats started and at the gun Ernest Durfee, in the windward position, worked clear of the bunch and forged to the front. Williams, Brownell and Hanover were well together in the midships position and it looked like a real mix-up until they finally were clear of some boats and separated. To leeward Browley and Houdreau were fighting it out for last place. The turn was made in the following order: Durfee, Williams Brownell, Hanover, Browley and Boudreau.

Durfee held his lead on the home stretch and finished just seven seconds after Boudreau had reached the turning mark. Williams was a good second. There was a "corking" finish between Brownell and Hanover, Brownell's one arm had begun to feel the strain and Hanover came up on him at the finish and seemed on the verge of passing, but Brownell called on his resources and doing the very best he could crossed the finish line one second to the good. There was another interesting contest for last place between Browley and Boudreau, the latter winning out, or rather losing the race, and taking the consolation prize.

There were only three starters in the swimming race, from the Three Sisters to the south float. Karl Squires won, but only after a great struggle by Herbert Brownell, who showed what a one-armed, vigorous swimmer can do when he exerts himself. W. J. Browley was third.

For next Thursday a pair-oared skiff race is proposed and it is possible that there will be a swimming race for some of the youngsters who have been interested spectators of the sports.

FOR THE CHILDREN'S WARD.

Annual Lawn Party This Year on the Nurses' Home Grounds.

Large Number of Attractions, With Many Helpers and About $700 Realized.

The fund for the maintenance of the children's ward at the Newport Hospital will be enriched by fully $700 as a result of the lawn party and sale Thursday afternoon. The lawn in the rear of the Nurses' Home on Powel avenue furnished plenty of room and opportunity for the attractive arrangement of booths, and in addition several tables were located on the piazza of the building. During the afternoon there was a large attendance and many of the booths and tables were sold out before the time for closing. There were tables for all sorts of articles and refreshments, and special booths for fortune telling, grabs, a mystery table, and for the sale of light refreshments.

Mrs. H. Casimir DeRham was in charge of the doll table on the piazza and had as assistants Miss Neill and Miss Manning. Mrs. Reginald Norman had a fruit table with Mrs. Walter N. Eldridge as assistant, and near by Miss Barbara Norman sold jellies. Mrs. James A. Swan was in charge of the table where chocolate candies were sold and assisting her were Miss Emily Burdick, Miss Elizabeth Hammett and Miss Prunella Wood. Mrs. Peter King was in charge of a fancy-work table and her assistants were Mrs. David C. Caesar and the Misses King.

A candy table on the piazza was in the care of Mrs. Harold A. Peckham and Mrs. F. A. Arnold, their assistants being Misses Dorothy Arnold, Susan H. Sherman, Mary L. Fletcher and Mary Morse Sheffield. A large cake table was in charge of Mrs. James T. Wright, Mrs. Darius Baker, Mrs. William H. Lawton and Mrs. John C. Seabury. Miss Bogren, superintendent of district nursing, had a table where useful articles made by the nurses at the hospital were sold, and was assisted by Misses Appleton, Blye, Hennessey and Chester of the hospital corps. Mrs. Hamilton Fish Webster was in charge of a flower table and Mrs. Charles C. Gardner of a table where samples of various articles were sold, her assistants being Mrs. Walter S. Langley and Misses Jessie Holm and Ruth Barker.

There were two fancy tables on the piazza. At one of these Mrs. Alfred Tuckerman presided and was assisted by Miss Edgar, Mrs. Grosvenor and Mrs. Benjamin Weaver. At the other Mrs. William Paine Sheffield was in charge and had Mrs. Clark Burdick and Misses Laura Barker and Anna Congdon as assistants.

Mrs. Lyman C. Josephs was in charge of a table where a great variety of articles which would please boys were sold, and her assistant was Master Roswell Josephs. A cookie table was especially attractive, Mrs. J. Howland Gardiner and Mrs. Charles W. Stewart being in charge, Misses Carrie Stewart and Helen Gardner and Master Jack Gardner, dressed as cooks, acting as assistants.

Miss Weaver and Miss McLeod had charge of the gipsy pot, one of the three grabs; Miss Pauline Brown had the elephant, another, and Miss Dorothy Baker presided over the third of these forms of amusement, a grab. Mrs. Joseph T. Perry, assisted by Miss Gwendolin Ferrin and Mrs. Harry LeClercq, was in charge of the mystery table. Miss Mary Carr and Miss Agnes Lodberg presided over the fortune telling.

Mrs. S. D. H. Sherman was chairman of the committee which had general supervision over the fair, and was assisted by Miss Martha Landers. Messrs. Charles L. Sherman, Crocker Landers and Harold Peckham were in charge of the entrances.

The Children's Ward fair is the outgrowth of an enterprise started about 10 years ago by three young girls, Susan H. Sherman, Emily Burdick and Elizabeth E. Hammett, who arranged a small fair for the benefit of the ward which was held on the lawn of the hospital. It has grown steadily in interest and is now a regular event each summer.

Lemonade and iced tea were sold by Miss Sally Patterson assisted by Misses Annie Lee, Abba Patterson and Barbara Taylor. The ice cream tables, which were largely in demand, were in charge of Mrs. Sypher, assisted by Misses Clara Allman, Frances, Katherine and Lillas Sheffield, Phyllis Hazard, Ruth and Mary Burdick, Katherine Brown, Isabelle Taylor, Margaret Carr, Elizabeth and Virginia Vernon, Marian Manuel, Clarissa Connell, Frances Lawton, Marguerite Waterbury and Dorothy Koehne.

There was also a shooting gallery, at which B. Howland Sherman and C. Sterling Lawton were in attendance.
